If Pact Ratified

Burial of the Dead Could Start Today

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Burial of the Peninsula's 1,500 dead could begin today if striking cemetery workers last night ratified a pact reached early Tuesday after night-long negotiations between the union and cemetery owners.

Agreement in the 121-day-old strike was attained after a marathon meeting mediated by San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto.

Alioto had called the meeting yesterday as "our last big effort" to break the deadlock between the Associated Cemeteries and Local 265 of the Cemetery Workers.

The mayor had twice before called a joint meeting with little success. This time Alioto vowed both sides would talk until an agreement was reached.

At 2:45 p.m. the group went behind closed doors to discuss the issues separating them. They took a dinner break at 6 p.m. and resumed their meeting shortly after 8 o'clock.

Not until 4 a.m. did the eight cemetery owners and eight union representatives emerge.

No details of the pact were made public until members have had a chance to vote on it beginning at 7 o'clock tonight at Colma City Hall, located only a stone's throw away from the cemeteries now overgrown with weeds, brown matted grass and overflowing trash containers.

Union officials predicted that burials would resume tomorrow if the strikers accept the terms of the settlement. Eleven cemeteries on the Peninsula are affected, ten in San Mateo County and one in northern Santa Clara County.

Union leader Maurice Fitzgerald had said earlier he felt the membership would accept the cemetery owners' offer of $39 per day — an increase of 60 cents per hour retroactive to March — if management also came up with increased fringe benefits for health and retirement, plus at least a two year contract.

It was announced that the union has been offered a three-year contract which would run through 1974.

Reporter LaPierre's weekly column on Page 18 deals in part with the cemetery dispute. It was written Saturday morning, hours before San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto called an emergency meeting of both sides.

The agreement only came one day after Governor Reagan charged the public was being victimized by whichever side is wrong in the strike.

Reagan met with a cortege of mourners from the Bay area who motored yesterday to the capitol to make a personal plea for the governor to intercede in the dispute.

The group of some 90 persons, led by a white hearse, drove the 82 miles to dramatize their cause and was told by Reagan:

"Whichever side is wrong, and I make no estimate on that, they have made it clear they have no consideration for the public and the people they are victimizing."

The governor pledged to legally do all he could to end the strike.

He urged that compulsory arbitration be used to resolve the dispute.

In a telegram sent to both sides before last night's negotiations were called by Alioto, Reagan outlined his plan for a three-man arbitration team to be made up of one representative from the union, cemetery and a statewide conciliation pool.

On the latest proposal, Fitzgerald said he was "optimistic"

A Sunday Stroll To Help 'Save' Bruno Mountain

By BOB PETERSON

Guadalupe Canyon Parkway became a walkway Sunday as young mostly and a housewife and politician, trekked up the road in an expression of their belief in saving San Bruno Mountain for a regional park.

The crowd was estimated from 300 to 400.

Mrs. Bette Higgins, South San Francisco housewife who spearheaded the walk, said the next move is to write letters to officials on the city and county level seeking support for a North County Regional Park.

She said those favoring the promised park also would begin attending meetings of the three cities South San Francisco, Daly City and Brisbane) who are in the mountain's sphere of influence.

"We (with the walk) have made more and more people aware of how the mountain is being threatened (with development)," she said. "When the mountain goes, where do we put our park?"

Mrs. Higgins again stressed the fact that the North County has been overlooked in recreational needs. "We've been getting short-changed," she said. "They always seem to find a means to get recreational facilities in the South County."

Frank Calton, project director for the developing Crocker Land Company said he didn't think the walk was that significant.

His point is that those who don't want anything at all are seeking "a simple and unrealistic way out."

The Crocker Land Company had an information booth set up nearby explaining its position on the developments.

"We're glad to have people see the mountain," said Calton, "and to look at it creatively."

The walkers congregated near the John F. Kennedy School, Colma, at about 11 a.m., Card tables were set up, and petitions were available for signatures urging the establishment of a regional park. There also were containers for donations to fight

Prevalent Planners Thought: Make 380 a 4-Lane Parkway

The State Division of Highways asked the San Bruno Planning Commission for comments on its Route 380 Environmental Report — and it got them, with a vengeance.

The commissioners each gave their off the cuff reaction Monday, and plan to polish them up for formal presentation to the state at the October 18 meeting.

Most prevalent view on the commission, Monday, seemed to be in favor of a four-lane parkway, instead of an eight-lane freeway over Sweeney Ridge.

Chairman Victor Ogrey called for creation of a San Bruno-Pacifica Citizens Committee, of nine to 11 people, to study all possible alternates to the proposed freeway.

William Cox recommended that the state update its population projection, since it is the population growth that determines the size of a highway — and newest figures on the slowdown of population growth indicate that the state's figures are obsolete.

He also recommended a more thorough meteorological report, and more data on earthquake faults in the area.

He felt, however, that some kind of a road was needed since just widening Sharp Park Road would mean that Sneath Lane probably would have to be widened, with the possibility of homes being removed.

It was Leon Miller who first proposed building a parkway — a two-level landscaped road, with two lanes in each direction, designed to take as little land as possible.

Miller went through the report, questioning a number of the items. He wanted more information on tunneling under Sweeney Ridge. He felt the figure cited that a tunnel costs 35 times as much to build as a freeway, was being exaggerated.

He said the proposed Sweeney Ridge cut would wreak havoc of all kinds; it would introduce fog and winds even farther southward.

Paul P. Supanich supported the idea of a tunnel.

Girven Whitney felt that the proposed freeway would not benefit San Bruno but would benefit Pacifica and large land-holders.

"I don't want to make it any easier to develop the coast," he said.

Robert Tennesen scored the section on pollution, which concedes that on still days, there probably would be some pollution effect.

"There is already a good deal

Rollingwood Center

Highways Division Chided Over 'Scar'

San Bruno planners were "taken" in permitting a piece-meal development of a shopping center where problems are mounting, Victor Ogrey, chairman of the Planning Commission charged Monday.

He made the accusation against the State Division of of Highways which bought the Rollingwood Shopping Center, razed most of it, then used part of it before auctioning off the rest.

A resultant slope between the new freeway and the shopping center, Ogrey charged, would remain an ugly scar, because "they never intended to landscape that slope."

The other villain in the piece appeared to be Harry Leonard, who reportedly has some connection with the Rinker Co., which purchased the shopping center.

Leonard allegedly assured the four parties to whom he sold pieces of the center that the Division of Highways was obligated to landscape that slope.

Leonard declined an invitation to attend the Planning Commission hearing. He said that he no longer had any interest in the property in question.

The Division of Highways, on the other hand, informed the Planning Commission that it did not own the land and would not landscape it.

Three of the four owners, on the other hand, did appear Monday night, and told the planners that they had no obligation to landscape that slope.

They included Tom Atkinson, representing Mobil Oil Co.; a Mrs. Heskins, a private investor from San Francisco who owns the 7-11 Market property, and Morris Ross, former San Bruno businessman who represented a group of partners who owned the vacant site next to 7-11. No representative from Sambo's Restaurant was there.

Ross announced that four different uses were being considered for the site, two of which would require use permits, two of which not, and thus would not directly involve the Planning Commission. He hoped to have construction under way by next month.

Particularly bitter at the situation was Commission Leon Miller, who was chairman at the time of the subdivision. The planners had only approved a three-way subdivision, and then one site was split administratively.

Teacher Strike Ends

DC Teachers Agree to Unconditional Return

By BOB HEMINGWAY

Teachers in Daly City's Jefferson Elementary School District have agreed to go back to work unconditionally, and the strike is over.

Presiding Superior Judge Melvin E. Cohn reported from the bench in his courtroom at Redwood City Tuesday afternoon that he was in possession of a resolution passed by the teaching staff earlier in the day agreeing to return to work.

"That's all there is to it," the judge stated. "The teachers agreed to go back to work, and the board agreed to accept them."

Judge Cohn subsequently discharged an order for the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association to show cause why its 227 striking members should not be held in contempt of court for failing to abide by an order to return to work.

In issuing his order, the judge directed that there be no reprisals or attempt at reprisals on the part of the school board against any of the teachers, or by the teachers against those instructors who did not join the strike.

"I urge you to get back to the business of educating children," Judge Cohn told the teacher and board representatives.

The judge said he was not going to attempt to decide "small differences" which may be remaining.

However, Duane Beason, attorney for the JCTA, said he was aware of no problems remaining, other than for the board to notify the substitutes who have been replacing the regular teachers that their services are no longer required, and telling the teachers "when and where" to report back for work.

William Schumacher, chairman of the district board of trustees, reported that the board was to meet Tuesday evening to work out the mechanics of the return of the teaching staff.

He said there would be no reprisals. However, he added, that there undoubtedly will be transfers on an individual basis where striking and non-striking staff members are not able to work together.

"We want to avoid a situation where a school couldn't function," Schumacher stated.

There will be no transfers on a personal or vindictive basis, the board chairman assured.

He indicated it probably will be next Monday before the changeover to the regular staff can be effected.

Denis O'Leary, a member of the JCTA negotiating team expressed optimism that everything will work out satisfactorily, stating that the teachers "agreed to go back along the lines Judge Cohn suggested".

Still pending before the court is a decision on the problem which caused the strike, the demand by the teachers for an agreement for binding arbitration on the part of the board in

WHS Plunge Costs Soar —Inflation

Inflation has sent costs of the Westmoor High School-Daly City joint swimming pool venture soaring.

In one year—from November 1970 until September 1971—estimates of pool costs have increased some 14 percent, a joint meeting of the Jefferson Union High School Board and Daly City City Council was told Monday.

Two years ago architect Zaven Tatarian estimated costs of the enclosed pool at $500,000.

Monday night Tatarian blamed modifications to the original plan, approved by both sides in the venture, plus inflation for jumping the total to more than $685,000.

Building costs alone have risen 15.4 percent in one year, Tatarian said.

By the time the pool goes to bid in the next few weeks another two percent will likely be added because of inflation "despite President Nixon's freeze."

The pool, to be paid for on a 60 (school)-40 (city) cost sharing basis, will be open to the general public and also be used for school purposes.

JUHSD superintendent Edward Morgan, after listening to Tatarian's presentation, said it would be "difficult to make a sound decision this evening" on the matter and suggested another committee meeting be held to compare cost figures.

The meeting was set up for today between representatives of all three agencies involved.

Delays in routing of the necessary paperwork were blamed for the project falling several months behind schedule, Tatarian said.

Joint Meeting Due On Senior Housing

Daly City has called for a joint meeting between all parties involved in the proposed construction of a senior citizens complex in an effort to iron out what mayor Bernard Lycett called "certain inconsistencies."

According to Lycett, officials of the Housing and Urban Development department have given him information that conflicts with information made available to the city by developer Bernard Hagan.

Hagan has proposed construction of a 112 united wood frame senior citizens apartment complex in the Mission-Market street area on 44,500 square feet of land.

The hangup on approval of the complex by Daly City is over information being fed to the city by HUD, the San Mateo County Housing Authority and Hagan.

Monday, a large group of supporters of the complex again attended the city council study session.

Mrs. Virgel Davis, president of the Daly City senior Citizens, asked the council to expedite the matter in order for HUD to act on it before another party gets priority.

When a member of the city council began asking Hagan about constructing the apartment of concrete — rather than wood—Mrs. Davis noted a poll of senior citizens revealed wood construction provided a more "homy atmosphere" whereas concrete gave such structures an institutionalized look.

Mayor Lycett assured Mrs. Davis the council was not "stalling" by asking for additional details on the complex.

He repeated what the council had voiced at earlier meetings — the city "wants the best for the senior citizens."

Monday Hagan discussed plans he had submitted to the city last week on the comples.

City Mgr. David Rowe said the plans answered "most" questions posed by the city at the last meeting with Hagan some three weeks ago.

"(The complex) could be designed and constructed in accordance with our building codes," Rowe said.

Rowe noted Hagan's company had successfully built 17 similar projects in Oakland and has two more projects pending in San Francisco and South San Francisco.

Although the Oakland development "is somewhat different," HUD and the Oakland Housing Authority indicated they are satisfied with Hagan's work, it was pointed out.

Lycett said that a HUD spokesman in San Francisco said that his agency often does not look with favor on wood frame four-story structures for seniors, and may even disapprove a three-story wood frame building under the program.

New Officer In South S.F.

One officer has been promoted and a new clerk matron has been hired in the South San Francisco Police Department.

Patrolman Anthony E. Smith, 27, has been moved to detective status and Mrs. Camille D. Miller became the new clerk matron.

Smith joined the department in 1966, serving five years as a patrolman in the uniform division. He attended Westmoor High School in Daly City and the College of San Mateo, earning an associate arts degree.

The newly appointed detective is married and the father of a two-year-old son.

Mrs. Miller joined the department September 16. She is a native of Missouri. She and her husband Albert are the parents of four children.

Delay Explained on Colma Creek Flood Control

Proper flood control for Colma Creek in the North County is still a long way off.

This fact became quite evident at a meeting of the Advisory Committee of Colma Creek Flood Control Zone yesterday afternoon at South San Francisco city hall.

Col. Charles Roberts of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers outlined a new flood control proposal that would allow the project to stay in the existing channel of Colma Creek.

One negative aspect of the proposal, however, is that protection would diminish by 50 per cent for about half the planned project.

Colonel Roberts said the entire project could not be designed to the level of the 100-year storm (a storm computed to occur once in 100 years — also referred to as a 1 per cent chance) the full distance of the present channel.

The reason is that structures, particularly in the low-lying industrial areas, are too close to the creek.

Therefore, the corps has proposed that a concrete channel be built for 100-year storm protection from a point on Mission Road near the railroad tracks down to about Bayshore Freeway.

At this point, the corps said it would have to construct a dirt trapezoidal channel through the industrial area on out to the bay.

Colonel Roberts said the corps has not yet run a study on the cost of such a project. He did say it would be less than the $17 million once estimated for a diversionary channel.

According to Roberts, the federal government pays all flood control costs of such projects and the local entity pays for whatever real estate purchases are necessary.

In the event that these real estate costs are higher than the flood control construction costs (which in this case they are estimated to be) the federal government will share all costs on a 50-50 basis, said Roberts.

The colonel said the corps has now run out of money and needs $95,000 in order to complete the cost study of the present proposal. He said a request for these funds will be made during the 72-73 fiscal year. If money is approved, the study could be completed by 1974.

At that time a report would have to be submitted to the federal board of rivers and harbors, which will refer it to Congress.

Colonel Roberts warned that the request may not get to Congress before the first part of 1975. Then even though the project is authorized, funds for it also have to be authorized.

Completion of construction is estimated at somewhere between 1979 and 1980.

Colonel Roberts said he would file an official report to the advisory committee of the flood control district. The committee then must decide whether to give the project the green light.

Ben Franklin P-TA Hospitality Meeting Tonight

The Benjamin Franklin Intermediate School P-TA will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Colma school's multi-use room.

Previous plans for a back-to-school night have been shelved temporarily, according to Mrs. Harry O'Neil, the unit's vice president and program chairman.

School's principal Ed MacIntosh indicated teachers would be present at the general meeting to participate in a informal "hospitality" session.

The unit, along with other P-TAs in the north county, also is conducting its annual October membership drive.

of pollution from existing freeways and the airport," he declared.

Cox appeared to be of divided mind.

"Ever since I moved to San Bruno (he lives in Rollingwood), we've been trying to get the city to buy a park up here. Now, the city has bought 40 acres. If the freeway is knocked out, it would go back to its private owners."

"I think it's been pretty much decided," said Jim Hensel. "The freeway is coming."

Ogrey pointed out that the Division of Highways paid for parts of two school sites, thus giving the school district, for the first time, a capital improvement fund. In addition, he felt that the Tanforan Shopping Center was doing so poorly that the freeway was needed to rescue it.

Ellen Larson, local Sierra Club representative, called the report "childish." She read guideline for such reports issued by the Environmental Council, and indicated that the report fell far short of these standards.

Only one voice backed the freeway unequivocally. Jack Clark, assistant building inspector, felt that many lives would be saved in emergency if there were at least one decent road to the coast.

the membership would be agreeable to the contract.

But the union leader — an instructor at the College of San Mateo — had expressed optimism before last Saturday's union meeting which saw the membership reject a proposal, 175-10.

That rejection was based on a lack of increased fringe benefits and the term of the contract — less than two years.

Attending the meeting in Alioto's office were the Rev. James McKay, director of Holy Cross Cemetery in Colma and a representative of Archbishop Joseph McGucken; Rabbi Joseph Asher, president of the Northern California Board of Rabbis; Jack Goldberger, vice president of the Joint Council of the Teamsters Union, and Timothy J. Twomey, secretary of the Hospital and Institutional Workers Local 250.

The strike has been on since June 3 and some 1,500 bodies have been stored in local mortuaries awaiting final burial.

Along with this figure, hundreds more have been cremated and are being stored in urns in mortuaries.

In some cases bodies have begun to create odor and health problems.

Care has been taken to preserve the remains as long as possible by placing them in special bags and dusting almost daily with paulex powder.

But mortuaries are out of room and, in several reported cases, caskets have begun to leak.

Survivors have suffered mental grief knowing their loved ones have not been committed to their final resting place, one funeral director in Daly City said.

the development in an all-out campaign.

A Red Cross ambulance and first aid station gave water to the hikers, who were blessed with a beautiful autumn day.

The gathering at the rally point, intersection of Guadalupe Canyon Parkway and Radio Road, the hikers were entertained by a folk singer until all the stragglers were up the mountain.

State Senator Arlen Gregorio, arriving late, refused a lift to the rally point. He said he would jog up the mountain. The senator made it to the rally point with the first group, wringing wet in his wool turtle neck sweater.

In a later speech Gregorio said, "We must decide what is important to our environment. Then we must plan and preserve.

Calton also spoke to the group. He said, "We have extensive plans to develop the area's recreational potential. The people now use this area mainly to ride motorcycles and dump garbage."

Another speaker was Dr. Elizabeth McClintock, author of a book on the flaura and fauna of the mountain. She said "Leave this mountain as it is today." Mrs. McClintock is scheduled to give a talk later this month in South San Francisco concerning the mountain, said Mrs. Higgins.

Mrs. Higgins also spoke at the rally. "We all must get in and work. We have a long way to go," she said.

SSF Recreation Center Plans For Renovation are Reviewed

Two architectural plans have been shown to South San Francisco councilmen on how to renovate the Magnolia Recreation Center into a multipurpose facility.

Councilmen, however, have held up on any move towards retaining a specific architect until it can be determined whether to renovate, or to build at another location.

The proposals were submitted by George S. Avanesian and Associates and Markling and Yamasaki, Inc. Both proposals were basically the same, leveling the back portion of the building and making several tiers of parking with the top floor reserved for offices.

Estimated costs were quite far apart. Markling and Yamasaki said it would cost $688,750, plus architectural fees. Avanesian quoted a figure of $980,000, plus fees. Markling and Yamasaki did a similar study in 1962.

City Manager Gale Dreisbach suggested that the park and recreational offices might be more centrally located at Orange Memorial Park.

He said there is a possibility of obtaining 50 per cent federal funding through a neighborhood community building program of the federal government.

According to Dreisbach, a remodeling program of the Magnolia Center might not qualify for the 50 per cent aid.

Councilman Frank Mammini said "If we keep building in the park we won't have any open space left."

More About D.C. Teachers' Strike

disputes affecting the teaching staff.

The board of trustees, acting on the advice of the district attorney's office that such an agreement is illegal, has refused to adopt it. The matter has been submitted to Judge Cohn for a decision, probably some weeks away.

The Jurist called a weekend recess in the Jefferson Elementary School District teachers' contempt hearing late Friday afternoon, reporting that, "we're reasonably close to settling" the strike.

The judge's announcement came after he conferred seperately in chambers with three members of the board of trustees on one side and three members of the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association (JCTA) on the other.

Reconvening court to announce that the situation looked bright, Judge Cohn continued proceedings to 2 p.m. Monday. He said parties on both sides were to confer Saturday in hopes of reaching agreement.

It was indicated that the negotiations will begin on the premise that the school board will take back the 227 teachers it suspended earlier, preparatory to firing them if the teachers will return to work unconditionally.

The teachers have been striking since the start of the school year because the board has declined to sign a binding arbitration agreement. The district attorney's office has maintained such an agreement is illegal. The matter presently is before Judge Cohn for a decision, with the court awaiting submission or briefs by both sides.

Meanwhile, the teachers have failed to obey a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction issued by Judge Cohn

Presiding Superior Judge Meldirecting them to return to work and to refrain from operation of the Daly City schools, it is alleged.

Judge Cohn declined a motion made at the start of Friday's contempt hearing by JCTA attorney Duane Beeson that the judge be disqualified.

Breson said he made the motion "with reluctance," but in the belief that "statements from the bench indicate a prejudgment of guilt."

The attorney also was informed that a petition he had filed in the morning with the District Court of Appeal seeking a writ of prohibition to terminate the Superior Court hearing had been denied.

Beason repeated his contention of Thursday's hearing that the refusal of the teachers to return to their classrooms couldn't constitute violation of the court's order because of the school board's action in suspending the teachers and instituting action to fire them.

Judge Cohn commented that the teachers hadn't tried to return to work.

"It looks to me like the children are the only adults in this sad state of affairs," the judge stated. "The adults are acting like children."

The jurist went on to say that he felt the teachers should offer to unconditionally go back to work, and that the trustees should unconditionally accept them.

William Schumacher, chairman of the board of trustees, stated in reply to a question by the judge that, "The attitude of the board would be very favorable if the teachers would terminate the strike."

At that point, Judge Cohn recessed court proceedings for more than an hour. He conferred in chambers with Schumacher and Trustees Mrs. Beverly Forrester and Mrs. Dorothy Adams, then conferred with the teachers' negotiating council, Miss Anita Jackson, Denis O'Leary and Mrs. Esther Turcott.

Before returning to the courtroom to announce that a settlement appeared near and to continue proceedings until Monday, the judge took time out to marry a young couple who had been patiently waiting while the school matter was being argued and discussed.

Attendance in the schools on the second day of the boycott rose some 570 students over Thursday, school officials said.

Superintendent Frank Greenwood predicted attendance would pass the 80 per cent mark on Monday with more parents sending their children back to class.

There were only minor scattered incidents at schools Friday.

One working teacher reported the tires on his car were slashed, while another reported rocks had been used to scratch the paint on her car.

Neither incident was reported to police.

Greenwood said the school district preferred to take care of the situation by themselves "for the time being."

Jefferson Board Supported

The action of the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees in starting firing procedures against striking teachers was commended in a resolution adopted Thursday by the San Mateo County School Boards Association.

The resolution commends the Jefferson board "for upholding the laws of the state of California that mandate them to keep open the public schools of the state and for their courage and fortitude in upholding the interest of the public and the students of their district."

Adoption of the resolution was made at a meeting of the association at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in San Mateo.

It is noted in the resolution that the current teacher strike is over demands made by teacher organizations for the board to sign binding negotiation agreements that, in effect, "tie the hands of the board from taking action without local teacher approval."

"All citizens should be reminded that for the Jefferson board to comply with such demands would mean the end of effective lay citizen control of public schools," the resolution states.

S.S.F. Councils Board to Meet

A $50,000 political discussion between two county supervisors and two South San Francisco councilmen has been sanctioned by that city's official body.

The discussion concerns the purchase of 1.72 acres of property earmarked for park use in the Buri-Buri section of South San Francisco.

The city says the county is asking for $50,000 more than what was originally agreed upon.

Councilmen Frank Mammini and Warren Steinkamp were given approval to duscuss the matter with Supervisor Chairman James Fitzgerald and Supervisor Bob St. Clair.

According to the city, these four met and made the original agreement on a property purchase and exchange.

The 1.72 acres borders the newly extended Westborough Boulevard, from Junipero Serra down to El Camino Real. When negotiations were progressing on putting in the road, the county took .52 acres of city land and paid $29,200 for it.

A creek running alongside the roadway was channeled into a pre-built culvert under the new road, and a 1.72 island further down the road was agreed to be sold back to the city for $60,200. This figure was arrived at based on the formula that gave the county the .52 acres from the city for $29,200.

However, the county is now asking for an additional $50,000, apparently to replenish its road fund from where the money was taken to build the creek culvert.

Superintendent of Recreation and Parks Bob Maxey cited the minutes of a August 18, 1969 meeting involving Councilmen Mammini and Steinkamp and Supervisors Fitzgerald and St. Clair in which the supervisors promised to support the city in the the acquisition of the park property.

Maxey said the $60,200 represents the exact amount the county paid for the 1.72 acres from the Golf Club at the beginning of the road project.

City Manager Gale Dreisbach said that the money the county used to put in the culvert was an "ineligible" item for road funds.

According to Dreisbach the city would end up paying only $7,750 for the 1.72 acres if the $50,000 were dropped, because of matching funds.

"This needs to be dealt with on the political level," said Councilman Steinkamp. "Not at the staff level."

Director of Public Works Lou Goss said the $50,000 "was an invention of the county staff to pay back what they took out of the gas tax monies."

One section of the government is stealing from another," said Councilman Patrick Ahern. "Even the $7,750 (for the park) is too much."

City Attorney John Noonan said this situation ought to be a good lesson for the city. "You don't deal piecemeal with the county," he said.

San Bruno Apartment Plan Vetoed

It was back to the drawing boards for Evergreen Apartments, a 175-unit apartment complex proposed by developer Perry Liebman for a 8½-acre site behind the Pacific Heights Shopping Center, in San Bruno.

The San Bruno City Council last week denied the appeal by the Liebman organization to rezone the site from commercial to R-M, garden apartments. The land had originally been reserved for expansion of the shopping center, but the center had failed to develop.

The planning commission had recommended previously against the rezoning. Liebman had appealed to the Council to over-rule the planners.

At the August 23 Council meeting, councilmen referred the matter to a committee composed of representatives of the community, the merchants and the developer. At a conference last week, the developer had agreed to a number of demands of residents, but refused to budget on the matter of density.

Atty. Art Colvin, representing Liebman last night, reached an understanding with the Council that he would be able to seek a different rezoning from the Planning Commission, from commercial to P-D, planned development. This zoning would impose a time-table and make the developer follow a specific plan.

Councilmen, however, particularly only Governale and George Corey, indicated that 175 units were entirely too many for the site. The councilmen refused to state the amount they would agree to, for fear that they could be accused of prejudging a hearing. Corey said, however, that 14 to 16 units per acre was medium density, as far as San Bruno was concerned, while 27 units per acre, which comes out to 175 units "as far as I'm concerned, is high density."

The city's masterplan shows the site as medium density apartments.

Colvin valued the development at $3,500,000 thus at an 11.44 tax-rate, providing a total tax of $100,100, which he felt would more than pay for any services that need be provided.

He insisted that he did compromise on density, dropping down from 222 units, which the requested zoning would permit, to a minimum of 175 units. Cutting down the number of units too much would make the entire project economically unfeasible, he insisted.

Corey insisted that he should receive the consent of the neighborhood.

Ralph Corrall of Jenevein Avenue complained that "in three years, San Bruno had turned into another Oakland or San Francisco." A large apartment complex in Crestmoor, he said, "looks like a monstrosity."

Mike Kaiser of Third Avenue insisted that the city "never turns down a development," and wanted to know why.

Speaking for the residents, Mrs. Carolyn Livengood of Sheryl Drive, said that the big worry was no so much the number of apartments but "how can you handle all the cars coming in and out?"

S.F. Airport To Open Ramp

San Francisco International Airport's new upper roadway approach ramp will be opened for public use this week, reports Airport Public Information Officer Ben Gaines.

The new curving roadway increases to six lanes the existing two-lane roadway. It has been under construction for more than a year.

Nixon Writes To Stricken S.S.F. Family

Messages of hope for Mrs. Jacqueline Collum and her stricken children continue to arrive in large volume at their South San Francisco home.

Among them is one from President Nixon who expressed sorrow but added, "I am heartened to read that you have refused to give way to pessimism."

Nixon said he, too, hopes that a cure will be found for the dread heriditary neurological malady —Batten's Disease — that afflicts the three Collum children in varying stages. The disease ran its inexorable course with Mrs. Collum's oldest daughter, 13-year-old Patty, and claimed her life September 12.

Since the tragic story was first told in The Times, Mrs. Collum has received nearly $5,000 in contributions, all of which has gone into a special fund for care of the children. Among the gifts of money was one from entertainer Glen Campbell. Friday Mrs. Collum was given a gallon wine jug stuffed with dollar bills. A caterer had solicited the money for the children on is route.

Mrs. Collum said she hopes the widespread publicity the case has received will lead to medical help for the children.

SSF Officer Is Injured In Accident

Off-duty South San Francisco patrolman Jim Lachance, 39, Thursday night was involved in a car-motorcycle accident that sent him to Peninsula Hospital, Burlingame.

Friday he was reported in good condition in intensive care.

According to San Bruno police, LaChance was riding his motorcycle eastbound on Sneath Lane when he collided wtih a car driven by Mary J. Cardoza, 24, of San Francisco.

Police said the Cardoza car was westbound, making a left turn onto the Interstate 280 frontage road. No citations were issued.

LaChance, who was riding the bike with his right foot in a cast! suffered multiple injuries including a compound fracture of his left ankle, hospital authorities said.

In another unrelated police-motorcycle accident, San Bruno officer William Malloy Thursday morning collided with a car driven by Edith J. Fagnani, 49, of 70 Dumot Court, Millbrae.

Police said Malloy was northbound on Cherry Avenue and collided with the Fagnani vehicle at the connector road to Interstate 280. Malloy was treated for cuts and bruises on his left side at Peninsula Hospital and released.

Safety Honors For Cities Announced

Four Peninsula cities, Belmont, Daly City, San Mateo and Atherton, have received American Automobile Association awards for their efforts in the association's 1970 Pedestrian Safety Inventory Program.

Belmont won a Pedestrian Safety Citation Award for not having had a pedestrian fatality in traffic for two consecutive years.

Daly City and San Mateo each were given awards for having no pedestrian deaths in 1970. A Special Citation for Casualty Record went to Daly City, one of 29 cities in the nation of 50,000 to 100,000 population to win such an honor. San Mateo received a Pedestrian Safety Citation.

Atherton's award was a Special Citation for Pedestrian Program Activities for the second consecutive year of pedestrian safety achievement in the category of cities under 10,000 population.

A total of 1978 cities and 24 states reported their results in competition for these awards.

Cities were judged on their casualty records, maintenance and use of accident records, legislation for enforcement, traffic engineering, traffic safety organization, school traffic safety and publication of educational information.

Aircraft Danger Warning to SSF

By BOB PETERSON

Under certain wind conditions, a fully loaded large jet could make a pancake landing in the South San Francisco residential area.

This is the gist of a message councilmen received last week from their airport noise consultant.

Maurice A. Garbell used more diplomatic language to express his opinion that the problem at San Francisco International is no longer one of noise abatement alone, but a safety situation as well.

Councilman Frank Mammini, long an airport and airlines critic, wasn't as kind. "One of these days they'll (airlines) drop one of those (planes) and wipe out three or four blocks. Then maybe they'll hear what we're saying."

Garbell, president of Maurice A. Garbell, Inc., consultants in aeronautical engineering, aerophysics and meteorology, pointed at the take-off crash of Pan Am Flight 845 on July 30 as a strong basis for his concern.

In a report he had prepared for South San Francisco in March, entitled "Aircraft Noise Abatement of the San Francisco International Airport," Garbell analyzed what actually happened in the Pan Am incident.

"It is imperative that something be done," said Garbell. He drafted a proposed resolution that urges the Federal Aviation Administration provide improved wind-velocity reporting equipment that can "remember" fluctuations of wind direction and speed in a critical wind-velocity range.

According to Garbell, the wind conditions prevailing at the time of the Pan Am incident were different from take-off wind conditions he had recommended in his report, which subsequently was endorsed by the airlines.

"The technical capabilities of the airport are being strained to the ultimate," said Garbell.

He said he was concerned about "extremely heavily loaded airplanes with marginal power plants" taking off on the short runways under adverse wind conditions. "Warnings should be stated," he said. "There is a miserable climb through the gap (over South San Francisco) into decreasing temperature and high winds."

Garbell said the weather conditions at the time of the July 30 accident were "abnormal for summer." He explained it as being "upper air with a southern component" combined with a "northwest surface wind."

The report Garbell prepared for South San Francisco was used by the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) preliminary hearings on the Pan Am incident.

In all, 13 recommendations were made by Garbell in his proposed resolution, which South San Francisco councilmen are reviewing for possible later action.

Among the 13 recommendations is to have the National Weather Service take the necessary steps to provide short-range (15 to 60 minute) forecasts of the surface wind velocity.

Garbell also was critical of the shortness of Runway one-right (1-R). He said the runway is 9,500 feet long and the first 1,100 feet of it is unavailable for full use by 747s and 727s because of the backdrafts they cause on the Bayshore Freeway. "The airlines are not happy with the runways through the hills," said Garbell. "They would prefer to take off over water."

He said that wind is one of the pilot's big arguments for not wanting to take off over the hills, and many planes have problems getting through the climb. "They say it (wind) is of such magnitude it puts wind forecasting in doubt," said Garbell. He said, however, that airlines don't want to "push" issue, nor has he heard from the Federal Aviation Administration on his proposals in not only lessening the noise but making the take off and landings safer.

Garbell suggested that an aerodynamically effective jet-deflector structure, or a blast shed (or both), be designed, tested, perfected and installed south of runway 1-R to protect traffic on the Bayshore and allow the large aircraft the use of the 1,100 feet that is now off limits for them.

He estimated the cost of this work to be $3 million. The construction of the barrier also would relieve South San Francisco, and other nearby cities in the San Bruno Gap, from unnecessary overflights, according to Garbell.

In addition to that construction, Garbell suggested that 1,000 feet be added to the runway northward, second only to completion of the eastward extension of Runway 28-Right presently under way.

Prison Term For S.F. Man

Jimmie Lee Spikes, 25-year-old San Francisco man who held up loan companies in South San Francisco and Redwood City early in August, has been sentenced to state prison by Superior Judge W. Howard Hartley.

Spikes, who took $773 from the GAC Finance Company in Redwood City August 2, and $400 from the Beneficial Finance Company in South San Francisco August 11, pleaded guilty to the robberies.

Millbrae Attorney Is Wed in Vallejo

St. Basils Church in Vallejo was the setting on Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Jan Karen Christensen and Steven Agosta, a Millbrae lawyer. The couple is honeymooning in Carmel and will live in Millbrae.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Lauritz Christensen of Vallejo who hosted a reception at the Mare Island Officers Club. Mr. and Mrs. Steve S. Agosta of Vallego are the bridegroom's parents.

For her wedding Jan selected a Victorian gown of white silk organza over taffeta fashioned along Empire lines with a high cameo neckline, leg of mutton sleeves and a square transparent yoke. Bands of white Venise lace and white satin ribbon detained her neck and yoke and accented her A-line skirt. Her chapel length train was detailed with the same lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of white baby roses and phaleanopsis orchids.

Mrs. Lawrence Burdick of Redding, the matron of honor, set the style of dress for all the attendants in a peasant style jumper with a white crepe blouse and floor length crimson skirt detailed with multicolored Tyrolean embroidery. Her flowers were red carnations, blue bachelor buttons and white baby roses and baby's breath.

Bridesmaid duties were shared by Mrs. Mark Giampaoli of Headsburg, Suzanne Rogers of Fresno, Jan's cousin, and Marilen McIntyre of San Francisco.

Michael Craig Monroe stood with Steven as best man and ushers were Calvin Schmall, William Richard Berky and Richard Earl Holmes.

Mrs. Christensen witnessed her daughter's wedding in a white and gold brocade satin A-line dress with short sleeves and a slightly scooped neck. A green coat dress with rhinestone buttons on the lace overcoat was chosen by Mrs. Agosta. Both mothers completed their look with white orchid corsages.

Among those present for the ceremony were Mrs. Wesley Craven Sr. and Mrs. Arron Edward Rucker, the bride's great aunts, and Mrs. Anthony Bennavide and Mrs. Anthony Agosta, the benedict's great aunts.

The newlyweds are both graduates of Vallejo High School who earned their associate arts degrees at Solano County Junior College. The bride also studied at Fresno State College and bridegroom completed his education at San Jose State and Hastings College of Law.

He is a member of the Millbrae Lions Club and the Commonwealth Club.

Ct. St. Mary Plans Reception On Thursday

Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold a reception for new members on, October 7, at 8 p.m., at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Hall, 80 Wellington Avenue, Daly City.

Regent Mrs. George Day said the large group of new members to be received is in line with a nationwide effort to bring in new members into the order.

State vice regent Mrs. James Miraglia and state teasurer Mrs. Rose Elinor Murphy will be among the guests.

Eleven women who have been members of Court St. Mary for 41 years will be presented with a memento for their service.

Among them are Mrs. Evelyn Weckerle of Daly City, who has been a past state regent, along with Mrs. Elizabeth Wettstein of San Francisco.

Mrs. Helen Kennedy will be chairlady of the evening.

Beth-Israel Judea Auction

is sponsoring an art expo auction are October 10 in Fellowship Hall, 625 Brotherwood Way, San Francisco.

A selection of 150 original works of art, consisting of limited edition lithographs, woodcuts, etchings and fine oils will be offered at auction.

The exhibition will open at 7 p.m. and the bidding will commence at 8:30.

Lake Tahoe Nuptial Site For Judy Cox

St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church at Lake Tahoe was the setting for the recent marriage of Judy Lyn Cox and Robert James Fitzpatrick.

The newlyweds received felicitations at Kings Castle at Lake Tahoe. After honeymooning at Lake Tahoe they are now living in San Bruno.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Cox of San Mateo. When she walked to the altar with her father she was dressed in a gown of silk organza over satin.

Jan Fitzpatrick, Robert's sister, served as the maid of honor and best man duties were performed by Barton Cox Jr., brother of the bride.

The new matron was graduated from San Mateo High School and her husband is an alumnus of San Francisco High School. He is a veteran of four years service with the U.S. Navy. John Fitzpatrick is his brother. Patty, David, Susan, Dan, Peter and Tommy Cox are her brothers and sisters.

First Public Widget World Nursery School Meeting

The first evening meeting of the Widget World Nursery School will be held at 7:30 p.m., October 11.

It will be open to the public.

Miss Linda Bodenhamer is the school supervisor.

The Widget World Nursery School has a program for children two years, nine months to six years old, Monday through Friday, from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Indoor and outdoor play is combined. Children learn to socialize with other children and adults.

The school operates on both a co-op and non-working plan for parents. Evening meetings are held only one night a month. The school is state licensed and sponsored by the YWCA.

AMT Plays in S.F. For Columbus Day

The American Musical Theatre and Academy, which produces musical comedies in association with the city of San Bruno, will take a temporary leave of absence from its home base for the weekend of Columbus Day celebrations in San Francisco, October 9-11.

After seeing the group's presentation of "Oklahoma" in San Bruno and "Make Mine Broadway" at the San Mateo County Fair, Columbus Day celebration officials contracted AMTA to be the featured performers at the San Francisco festivities.

First event on the agenda will be the appearance of the AMTA Road Company in the gold room of the Fairmont Hotel on October 9. The acclaimed "Make Mine Broadway" will be encored for the leading citizens of San Francisco with an additional segment devoted to AMTA's next production, "Camelot." Those who do not attend this Columbus Day celebration committee banquet may see the same show on October 17 at 2 p.m. at the Encore Theatre, Burlingame, paired with Busby Berkley's "Footlight Parade" on the screen.

On October 11 at 1 p.m. San Francisco's Aquatic Park Amphitheatre will be the setting for AMTA's production of a musical extravaganza "Admiral of the Ocean-Sea." This original pageant was created for Columbus Day by AMTA producer-director Jack Brooks who utilized famous themes from Puccini operas for the score and is the first departure in decades from the traditional landing ceremonies.

OLPH Women Will Convene

Following 8 p.m. devotions to Our Lady of Perpetual Help, the Westlake Catholic Women will meet in the parish hall, October 11.

The fifth annual "Day at the Races" will be one of the topics discussed, according to Mrs. Edward Avanzino, chairman for this event.

Mrs. Avanzino will have tickets on sale at the meeting for those who wish to purchase them.

Hospitality chairman Mrs. Julian Fernando has announced third grade mothers will be hostesses for the evening: Mrs. Robert Hulsmann, Mrs. Edward Le Blanc, Mrs. Garrett McDonald and Mrs. Joseph Small.

Brownie Scouts' Investiture Set

Daly City Brownie Girl Scout sister troops 2282 and 2549, both meeting at the Panorama school, have scheduled their investiture and membership recognition meeting for October 28 at the school.

To be invested are Lisa Accurso, Kathleen DeMarlo, Georginia Germano, Bonnie Jefferson, Teresa Philpott, Kari Ratto, Denise Wawrzynski, and Suzette Watkins of troop 2282, lead by Mrs. Robert G. Booth Jr. and Mrs. Eugene Guaraglia.

Receiving a one-year membership pin are Robin Booth, Elisabeth Feeney, Pamela Guaraglia, Carole Kolinas, Michele Racquet, Renee Ranghiasci, Lisa Sozzi and Tanya Webber.

Mrs. Frank Norman Jr. and Mrs. Charlotte Webber of troop 2549 will invest Mary Fish, Amy Childers, Lyna Hartle, Lisa Marino, Miriam Dacumos, Michelle Erlach, Kim Holt, Laura Conti and Denise Dean.

Millbrae Exhibit

The Millbrae Library is exhibiting Decoupage by Doris Morse, recently moved to Millbrae.

The exhibit will be displayed during the month of October in the foyer of the library.

The artist has had exhibits in San Francisco and Westlake libraries. She has also taught Craft classes demonstrating this technique. Emphasis will be on Christmas and Americana.

Taylor Night School

The parents of students attending Taylor Intermediate School will have the opportunity to "Go Back to School" October 13, at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Poppers and the school Principal, R. Dean Edwards, will speak and the parents will be dismissed to their child's homeroom class, where they will receive the student's daily schedule.

The Wedding Bells Chime for Peninsulans

THE PATRICK WARDS (Anita Giani)
(Photo by Gruman)

Living in Santa Clara after honeymooning in Oregon are Mr. and Mrs. David R. Stupi (Linda Mozzali) who were wed at St. Veronica's Church in South San Francisco.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon A. Mozzali of South City who hosted a reception following the service at the Brentwood Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stupi of South City are the benedict's parents.

Linda wore a white lace gown with peau de soie trim and a finger tip veil. Her going away outfit was a pink wool dress with short sleeves.

Susan Buller, the maid of honor, and Joanne Fordice, the bridesmaid, both wore lavender voile gowns with daisy applique. Flower girls were Kathy and Maryann Stupi who wore miniature versions of the senior attendants' gowns.

Best man duties were performed by Michael Stupi and Donald, Steve and Phillip Stupi shared ushering duties with Stephen Mozzali, brother of the bride, and Steve Aguilar.

The bride is a graduate of South San Francisco High School. Her husband is employed in Santa Clara.

Giani-Ward

Anita Paula Giani, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Giani of Millbrae, recently became the bride of Patrick Sean Ward. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ward of Baltimore, who traveled to the West Coast for the service which took place at St. Peter and Paul's Church in San Francisco.

The bride wore a full length silk organza gown with lace appliques at the bodice and hemline. Pale lavender floor length chiffon gowns were worn by all her attendants.

Maryann Lucanic of San Bruno was the matron of honor and bridesmaids were Debbie Kaurent of San Francisco and Penny Ward of Baltimore, Patrick's sister.

Best man for his brother was James J. Ward III of Baltimore and Kevin Ward, another brother, seated guests with Charles Orth, Jr., also of Baltimore. Ring bearer for his sister's wedding was Paul Anthony Giani.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was given at Bertolucci's in South San Francisco. After greeting guests the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in Las Vegas and the Southland. They are now living in San Mateo.

The bride is an alumna of Mills High School and the College of San Mateo. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Giovanni Giani.

Patrick is the grandson of Mrs. Alice Lang of Baltimore, who attended the rites, and the brother of Michael Ward who also attended the wedding with his wife.

Landini-Campredon

A wedding trip to Hawaii and Disneyland followed Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Frank Campredon's recent marriage which took place at Sts. Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco.

The bride is the former Paula Anne Landini, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Landini of South San Francisco who marked their thirty-fifth anniversary on the day of their daughter's wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Campredon of South City are the benedict's parents.

For her wedding the bride selected a long white traditional gown of Chantilly lace. She changed to an orange and Navy blue dress with an orange coat for her honeymoon.

Christine Genovesi, the maid of honor, set the style of dress for all the attendants in a costume which featured a white lace bodice and lilac chiffon skirt. Bridesmaids were Linda Avelar, Christy Kukkonen and Kim Campredon.

Best man duties were performed by Gary Commick and ushers were Dave Dominge, Tom Nichols and Larry Evars.

The newlyweds, who are both graduates of El Camino High School, received felicitations after the service at the San Francisco Athletic Club. They are now living in South City.

Holy Angels Tea Planned

THE POST'S Family Forum

An Anniversary Tea celebrating the 20 years the Sisters of the Holy Infant Jesus have been at Holy Angels School in Colma is planned for, October 10, at 2 in the Convent at 20 Reiner Street.

All women of the parish, women graduates of Holy Angels and women friends of the Sisters are invited to attend.

September, 1951, saw the final touches put to the new Holy Angels School. October 6 was the red-letter day, because the school had its first full day complete with five grades and five sisters.

Mother Thomas Aquinas, grade five; Sister Regis, grade four; Sister Thomas More, grale 3; Sister Hilary, grade 2; and Sister Attracta, grade 1.

Each succeeding year brought a new sister to teach the added grade, and through the years, the students have had several Sisters to help and serve them.

The name of the Order is the Congregation of the Sisters of the Holy Infant Jesus. The sisters came from the Drishane Foundation, County Cork, Ireland. Colma was the second foundation in California, having been preceeded by St. John's in Healdsburg and the third foundation was established at St. Veronica's in South San Francisco in September, 1956.

One of the things that stands out most in the memory of the Sisters upon coming to Holy Angels was the presence of boys in the classroom. Up until the time the Sisters came to California, they had taught only girls.

The Congregation of the Sisters of the Holy Infant Jesus was founded in Normandy, France, in 1662, by Rev. Nicholas Baare, a Friar Minim, friend and spiritual director of St. John Baptist de la Salle. The Order has Convents in France, Ireland, England, Spain, Italy, Belgium, Malaya, Japan, Australia and Peru. They are involved in Primary Schools, Day and Boarding Schools, Domestic Science Colleges, Students Hostels, Home for the Aged, Nurseries for Abandoned Babies and Convent Retreats for Past Pupils.

NELL NORTON

Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

Tomatoes are plentiful so it seems like a good time to suggest this combination tomato and vegetable salad.

Before I start the recipe, here's a tip for making tomato peeling easy. Using the dull edge of a knife, rub it over the tomato as though you were peeling it. (What you are doing is loosening the skin.) Then stick the point into the skin and you will find it peels off easily.

Now that you know this slick-quick way to peel the the tomatoes here's the recipe.

TOMATO VEGETABLE SALAD

1 pkg. frozen mixed vegetables
1-third cup olive oil
1-third cup vinegar
1 teaspoon brown sugar
1 teaspoon chopped green onion
2 Tablespoon chopped green pepper
Salt and pepper
6 tomatoes

Cook, but don't overcook, the package of frozen vegetables. Drain. Combine the one-third cup each oil and vinegar, one teaspoon brown sugar, one teaspoon chopped green onion, two tablespoons chopped green pepper and salt and pepper. Pour over vegetables and chill.

Peel the six tomatoes, quarter, but don't cut all the way through as you want the tomatoes to cup the vegetables. Place tomatoes on lettuce leaves and fill centers with vegetables and dressing. Serves 6.

Another nice feature with this salad. It saves wear and tear on mother. You don't have to yell at the children. 'Eat your vegetables AND your salad." You just have to yell, "Eat your salad." A two-in-one deal.

A quick bread with the color and flavor of dried apricots giving it eye and taste appeal makes a welcome addition to the lunch box. The secret to the recipe, according to the good cook who gave it to me, is the long slow baking time.

APRICOT AND NUT BREAD

¾ cup chopped walnuts
1 cup cut-up dried apricots
1½ teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
3 Tablespoons (heaping) shortenng
¾ cup boiling water
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1 cup granulated sugar
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour

In mixing bowl place the three-fourths cup chopped walnuts, one cup cut-up apricots, one and one-half teaspoons baking soda and half-teaspoon salt. Mix with fork. Add the three heaping tablespoons shortening and three-fourths cup boiling water. Let stand for 2 minutes. Heat oven to 25 degrees.

Beat the two eggs and add to fruit and water mixture. Next add the one teaspoon vanilla flavoring, one cup granulated sugar and one and one-half cups sifted flour. Beat with a fork.

Grease a 9x5x3-inch loaf pan and line with wax paper. Turn dough into pan. Bake in 250-degree oven for 2 hours or until done, test with toothpick. Cool on rack. Makes 1 loaf.

Since my oven was at 250 degrees I looked around for something else to bake at that temperature and made these wonderful meringues.

MERINGUES

2 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon cream of tarter
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 pkg. chocolate bits, semi-sweet

Beat the two egg whites with the eighth teaspoon each salt and cream of tarter until stiff but not dry. Add the three-fourths cup sugar one tablespoon at a time, beating until stiff after each addition. Fold in the half-teaspoon vanilla and one package semi-sweet chocolate bits.

Drop by teaspoon onto heavy brown paper. (A paper bag cut open works fine.) Lay on oven rack. Bake in 250-degree oven for 1 hour. Makes about 30 meringues.

Tom Powell

Beef Vs. Chicken

Statistics can be deceiving.

And newspapermen through the years have come to expect public relations agencies to use statistics to their own advantage. It's a kind of cat and mouse game — and a newsman sometimes has to be pretty careful to keep this stuff from getting into the news columns.

With this in mind, examine this press release by the California Beef Council.

"Redwood City, September 24 — A recent study supervised by the Santa Clara Department of Weights and Measures shows beef steak to be less expensive than chicken, according to George W. Strathearn, manager of the California Beef Council.

"Speaking to a group of beef industry leaders, Strathearn explained the study, stating that a random purchase made at a San Francisco Bay Area supermarket of one whole chicken, and a cut-up one, were used in the experiment.

"Both chickens were carefully boned and skinned, under the supervision of the chief of the Santa Clara County Department of Weights and Measures," Strathearn said. "The whole chicken weighed 2 lbs. 10 oz., and sold for 49 cents per pound. Cost: $1.27. After seperation (sic) of waste and meat, only one pound of meat remained, for an actual cost of $1.27 per pound.

"The cut-up chicken weighed 2 lbs. 15½ oz., at 55 cents per pound, and cost $1.63. There was 1 lb. 3½ oz. of meat on this chicken, with an actual cost of $1.39 per pound.

"It is interesting to note that round steak was selling for 99 cents per pound in this same market, and it was all delicious beef — no waste. Top round was selling for $1.19. Both are well under the price per pound of chicken meat. . . ."

OK. That's their press release. Now let's have a look at it.

First, let us assume that the Santa Clara County Department of Weights and Measures is an honest agency and that the boning and skinning was properly supervised.

And let us also assume that the Council's purchase of chicken and beef was truly "random."

Finally, let us accept that you can actually pay 49 to 55 cents per pound for chicken in some supermarkets.

So there is truth to the Beef Council's single premise, but the conclusion is not based on enough evidence.

In last week's paper there were four supermarkets in the San Mateo area that advertised whole chicken fryers and round steak. The prices for the fryers were 33, 31, 33 and 29 cents per pound. The prices for the round steak (bone-in) were 99, 99, 99 and 78 cents per pound.

The chicken, on the average, costs 31.5 cents a pound. The beef, on the average, cost 93.75 cents a pound.

Using the Beef Council formula, we found that waste-free chicken cost 82.6 cents a pound.

Using the same formula, we found that waste-free round steak cost 93.75 cents a pound. (If you agree that the bone-in is not waste.)

So you see, using a different set of figures, you can also prove that chicken is cheaper than beef.

I'm very fond of chicken.

I'm very fond of beef.

I would simply like to ask the California Beef Council one favor.

Cut out the bull.

A Busy Week at Parish

It will be a very busy week in the Holy Angels parish according to Mrs. George Sigigie, publicity chairman for the parish's Women's Guild.

Starting things off for the ladies of the parish will be tonight's regular monthly guild meeting at 8 p.m. in the parish hall. Mrs. Louis Cazerza, president, will preside and the guest speaker will be the Rev. Charles J. Holmes.

Father Holmes, who is in residence within the Holy Angels parish while he studies for his Masters degree in theology at the University of San Francisco, will speak on the topic of adult education within the church. Father Holmes is originally from the Stockton diocese.

On Sunday the Sisters of the Holy Infant Jesus will celebrate their twentieth anniversary at Holy Angels with a tea at the convent, 20 Reiner Street.

Mrs. Alfred Padreddii and Mrs. John Moran are chairmen of the tea and they will be assisted by a number of ladies of the guild. Tea will be poured by the sisters. Girls who are former students and their mothers as well as current guild members are invited to attend the festivities between 2 and 4 p.m. Mrs. Sigigie explained.

AMONG THOSE WHO will be attending the tea are Mrs. David Rushka and Mrs. Michael Gilmartin and they will be anxious to talk with anyone wishing to make reservations for the luncheon on November 6 which is being sponsored by the Ladies Luncheon League.

The luncheon will be staged in St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco and a tour of the new edifice as well as a demonstration on the magnificent new Ruffati organ will be included in the afternoon's schedule of events.

The tickets for the luncheon will be sold for $2.

IT WILL BE UP, up and away again for the Fifty Plus travelers next week according to Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, club president.

A party of 18 Fifty Plus Club of Pacifica members are slated to depart for a grand tour of the Hawaiian Islands on Monday. Mrs. Calhan who has been ill, but now plans to be on the trip, reports that the flight plan calls for fifteen days of sightseeing on the Circle island tour, the Mt. Tantalus tour, the Sea Life Park and two nights each on the islands of Kauai, Maui, Kona and Hilo.

The members of the tour hope to come back with some lovely costumes and some tall tales for the upcoming Halloween Party.

THE CHILDREN and parents of Abraham Lincoln school in Daly City are invited to An International Night Dinner on Tuesday in the Multi-purpose room of the school.

According to Mrs. William Holland, pubiicity chairman, a charge of 50 cents per person will be made for the spaghetti, tossed salad and French bread dinner. Desserts will be donated by the parents who are asked to bring something representative of their own ethnic backgrounds.

Mrs. George Nutting is chairman of the get-acquainted event.

No reservations are necessary, Mrs. Holland said.

Mrs. Murray H. Friedman notes that time is running out for those who haven't as yet purchased their reservations to the North Peninsula Circle for the Florence Crittenton Home Fashion Show and dinner on October 13.

Mrs. Charles Poggio, 756-4796, and Mrs. Paul Hupf, 755-3038, are the ladies to call to arrange for your tickets today.

NOVEMBER MAY seem a considerable distance away but when you are actively engaged in preparing for an event, a month is very little time in which to accomplish all that must be accomplished, or so it seems to Mrs. Mario Mangini, chairman of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's program for participation in Mary's Help Hospital Guild Day at Serramonte.

According to Mrs. Mangini the guild will join with the Serramonte Shopping Center in honoring the volunteer work done for the hospital during special observances on November 2.

The day will focus on the contributions made by the guild in the area of volunteer service and fund raising. Special exhibits and displays will be set up throughout the mall to visually represent the role of the volunteers at the hospital.

Mrs. Mangini is being assisted by Mrs. John J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Vernon Okerstrom, volunteers; Mrs. Dario Baciocco, investment tickets; Mrs. Frank Kelechava and Mrs. Philip Coniglio, exhibits and window displays; Mrs. Elwin Short, Mrs. Warren Price and Mrs. Dan McClory fashion show and luncheon.

Scout Call Goes Out for Parents

Five district meetings have been set up for parents of girls interested in learning about becoming Blue Birds, Camp Fire Girls, or Junior High Camp Fire girls in Daly City. Camp Fire leaders will conduct each meeting and answer any questions parents may have about the program.

The Blue Bird program is open to girls who are 6, 7, or 8 or in the first, second or third grade. Camp Fire girls are 9, 10 or $$, or in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. The Junior High program is open to any girls who are in Junior High school.

New groups will be formed at each meeting. The existing seventh grade Junior High amp Fire group has openings for new girls and if enough girls who are interested a new group will be formed. The Junior High program has been completely revamped this year and will be much more relvant to today's girl.

Anyone unable to attend their own meeting may attend another one or call the Camp Fire office in San Francisco for details.

The schools involved in each meeting and dates and times of the meetings:

Vista Grande, rocker, Pershing, George Washington, O.L.P.H., October 12, War War Memorial Upstairs Room at 10 a.m.

F. D. Roosevelt, October 6, at 10:30 a.m. in the multi-use room at F.D.R.

Lincoln, Thomas Edison, Daniel Webster, Christopher Columbus and Vista Mar October 6 at Westmoor Clubhouse, 10 a.m.

Pauline Brown, Garden Village, Westlake, Olympia, Fernando Rivera, OLOM will meet on October 13 at St. Martin's hurch, 777 Southgate, at 10:30 a.m.

Gala Guild Day At Serramonte

Mary's Help Hospital will join with Serramonte Center in presenting a gala "Mary's Help Hospital Guild Day at Serramonte," November 2.

Throughout the day Guild members in pink pinafores will be assigned in various stores in the mall to greet shoppers. Exhibits and window displays will depict the important role of the volunteer in hospital function and the contributions made to Mary's Help Hospital by the Guild in both the area of volunteer service as well as fund-raising projects.

A highlight of the day will be a fashion show luncheon to be held at the Ranch Inn located in the center. Guild members will model the latest in chic fashions from a number of the stores in the shopping complex.

The climax of the evening will be the awarding of prizes. The three main prizes will be a freezer filled with frozen foods, courtesy of Montgomery Ward and QFI Food Market; a Sony portable TV from Macy's and a $150 shopping spree from McDonald's. In addition to the above, there will be a number of other valuable prizes. All donations from the sale of the investment tickets will benefit the coronary care unit at the Daly City hospital.

Mrs. Mario Mangini will be general chairman, assisted by Mrr. John Joseph FitzGerald, Mrs. Vernon Okerstrom, Mrs. Frank Kelechava, Mrs. Philip Coniglio, Mrs. Dario Baciocco, Mrs. Elwin Short, Mrs. Warren Price and Mrs. Dan McClory.

KAREN HUBBARD

Karen Hubbard Engaged to Alfred Johnson

A champagne party Saturday at the Millbrae home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie V. Hubbard Jr. was the occasion for them to disclose the engagement of their daughter, Karen Nancy, and Alfred E. Johnson. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil A. Johnson of Oakland.

The prospective bride was graduated from La Sierra High School in Sacramento and the University of California at Berkeley. She also studied at Asia Institute in Shiraz, Iran and is now attending the University of Washington for her master's degree in librabrianship.

The bridegroom-to-be is also an alumnus of UC at Berkeley where he is now working towards his masters degree in mechanical engineering. He received his high school diploma from Oakland High School. Alfred is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity.

The couple plans to be married next summer.

Millbrae Resident Will Be Married

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Brownlee of Anchorage, Alaska have announced the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Betty, to Paul Wilms. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilms of Millbrae.

Betty is now attending Humboldt State College where she is working towards her elementary teaching credential. Her fiance studied at Mills High School and was graduated from Humboldt State with a bachelors degree in forestry.

Further wedding plans are incomplete.

FDR P-TA Will Sponsor Dinner

Friday, October 15, between 6 and 8 p.m. the F.D. Roosevelt P-TA will sponsor an International Night Pot Luck Dinner in the school's multi-use room.

Families attending will take a main dish or salad representative of their national origin. Dessert and drinks will be provided.

Price for the dinner will be $1 for adults and 25 cents for children under 12.

All children must be accompanied by an adult.

Mrs. Joseph Acquistapace's Na Nu Ka-Wa Ki Ya Camp Fire group will serve as hostesses and assist with the setting up and serving.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

MISS FINEFROCK, TN English teacher and Pep Club advisor, thinks the girls are doing a great job. They worked all during the summer to get the clud organized, and even had a cake sale and succeeded in raising money to pay for 25-30 of the unfiroms. Over 65 girls attended a recent Pep Club meeting, and according to Miss Finefrock, "the club keeps growing."

"Sis-boom-bah" and athletic-centered school spirit made a surprising comeback at Terra Nova this year with the reformation of the Pep Club. This was a surprising development to me since I had come to the conclusion that the age of the glorified football hero and rah-rah spirit was dead, or at any rate, rapidly fading.

The Pep Club originally began sometime during the first few years of Terra Nova's existence, lasted for about five years, died out, and wasn't heard of again until this year, when school mascots Pam Downing and Jody Smith decided that the girls who didn't make the cheerleader and pom pon girl try-outs could still have a chance to be a significant part of the Spirit Staff.

It was a successful manuever, and managed to liven up the rallies somewhat by giving the cheerleaders a reliable, eager, most of all, loud response to their cheerleading from the massive section of Pep girls sitting in the bleachers.

THE PEP CLUB made its debut in time for the first game of the football season, with all the participating girls dressed in black and gold spirit uniforms and exuberantly vocalizing their "school spirit" from their bleacher section at the first school rally. The reactions on campus (after the initial shock of hearing people actually yell at rallies again) were mixed:

Senior girl: "I think it's good—it improved the rallies. It gives more of the girls who don't try out for cheerleaders a chance for recognition or a chance to feel like part of the school."

"I guess the uniform does have a lot to do with the club's appeal." She said. "It gives the girls (especially the lower classmen who feel unwelcome or hesitant to join other school clubs or organizations) an opportunity to really feel special and a part of the school."

Senior boy: "School spirit is whatever you feel. The Pep Club doesn't add to what you feel."

Senior girl: "The prupose that the club was made for is meaningless. There are many other, more constructive things that they could divert their energy towards, such as the ecology programs or drug abuse prevention clinics."

Freshman Pep girl: "The idea of the club is to promote school spirit. It gives the football games a friendlier atmosphere and gets the people yelling, gets the audience involved more. The girls in the club have fun—it's good because it gives you a chance to meet different people."

Senior boy: "It's strange to pay $20 for a uniform just to sit in a big crowd and cheer."

Junior athlete: "The athletes appreciate the cheering. It makes them play better by having someone to show-off for, so they try harder. It's a lot better than having nobody show up and playing for empty bleachers."

Senior boy: "They can cheer without uniforms."

Senior girl: "It's better than just sitting around and not caring. At least they're involved in something."

Senior girl: "It's good because it forces the spirit staff to share the limelight. It takes some of the glamour away from the cheerleaders and pom pon girls."

Senior girl: "They all have something in common—nothing."

The Jeff Scene

By SUE MCALLISTER

School life is slowly resuming its natural pace as Jeff begins another year.

September 22 the Freshmen (Class of '75) attended a special preview, which is a Jefferson tradition. The aim of this event is to give the new Pep Staff, Band, and Pow Wow Commissioner (Linda Adreveno) a chance to help the Freshman as they warm up for the first official rally.

The first class officers for the "Class of '75" have been elected. They are: President, Ed Santo Domingo; Vice-President, Patty Montes; Secretary, Joann Celestino; Treasurer, Vicky Valsente.

ON SEPTEMBER 23, the first rally for the whole student body was held. The classes competed for points toward the spirit trophy given to the most spirited class at the end of this school year.

Linda Adreveso introduced the students to the Pep Staff: Mascot, Teresa Torres; Cheerleaders, Rosie Lindsey, Jackie Jardin, Teri Jackson and Cynthia Themoleous (Head); Varsity, Sue Chervellera, Theresa Magness, Karen Jolivette, Janice Williams and Cathy Alonso (Head); Pep Girls, Janice Jardin, genny Flores, Leticia Castillo, Grace Celestino and Carol Badran (Head); Majorettes Jackie Coon, Karen Ruggierd, Vickie Englehard, Laura Ramstetter.

THIS YEAR the Jefferson Student Body Card is $3.50. With the card students are eligible for many discounts: Serramonte—Bedazzeled 10 pct., Albert's Hosery 10 pct. on Danskin Tights and Leotards, House of Fabrics 10 pct.; Tanforan—Albert's Hosery 10 pct. on Danskins Leotards and Tights, House of Fabric 10 pct; Stonestown — Hartfields Wednesday nights 10 pct.; Daly City—Ice Cream Shack 10 pct. over 50 cents M-F 2:35 4:00, King Auto Supply up to 50 pct., and Town and Country Billiards 20 pct. The students are also admitted to every home game free and discounts on away games.

TO EARN money each organization has its own way making a profit. Here are the organizations with sales:

The Jefferson Marching Band is selling their annual names on the 1972 calender. Each event such as birthdays, anniversaries, meetings, etc., costs only 35 cents and they may be purchased from any band member.

Ghiardelli Chocolate is being sold by the freshmen class to earn money for the activities they will participate in 4 years at Jeff.

KEITH HEADMAN, BARBRA NEWBY

Betrothal Told

Mrs. Charles T. Newby of Daly City has announced the engagement of her daughter, Barbra Irene, to Keith Martin Headman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Headman, also of Daly City.

The future bride is also the daughter of the late M-Sgt. Charles T. Newby USA (ret). Dane Francis Newby is her brother and her grandparents are Mrs. F. A. McCafferty of San Francisco and the late Mr. McCafferty and Mrs. Wade H. Bullard of Mobile, Ala. and the late Chesleigh D. Newby.

Keith has one brother, Craig Lee Headman. He is the grandson of Mrs. George L. Fulk of San Francisco and the late Mr. Fulk and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil W. Headman of San Francisco.

Barbra and Keith are both graduates of Westmoor High School. She continued her studies at San Francisco State College and he earned his associate arts degree from the College of San Mateo. Barbra is affiliated with the International Order of Job's Daughters.

New Teachers at Westmoor High

Westmoor High School has hired 15 new teachers.

They are Miss Francis Harrison who attended Lady Margaret School for Girls, then Redland High School. From there Miss Harrison went to Ventura Junior College, and University of Cal at Berkeley for three years. She is now attending San Francisco State and is majoring in English.

From San Francisco is Mrs. Susan Hawn who attened Lone Mountain College and S.F. State to receive her credentials. Mrs. Hawn teaches freshmen English.

Miss Theresa Gander who teaches freshmen math attended Immaculate Conception High School, then went on to USF and College of Holy Names where she received her masters degree.

Miss Maggie Mahoney who student teaches, went to UEF and Notre Dame. She is teaching English and History to freshmen and sophmores.

Student teaching for Mr. Jack Ramago and Mr. Hugh Conroy is Mr. Dale Taylor who went to high school at Westmoor then to USF where he majored in phychology and sociology.

Returning to Westmoor after teaching at Terra Nova for two years is Mr. James Lair. He also attended Westmoor then to Chico State where he received his credentials in wood shop and auto shop.

Working in the business department is Miss Diane Kam. She attended St. Francis High School and Bloomsburg State College in Pennsylvania and is originally from Hawaii.

Mr. William Von Esmarch, a student teacher, who attended Riordon High School in San Francisco. He majored in sociology at S.F. State where he will return after this semester.

These are eight of the 15 new teachers at Westmoor, the rest are Andrew Fenyes, Linda Foster, Kathrine Hair, and Stuart Memphan, Shirley Mongan, Arthur Reade, and taking over The Rampage is Jerry Littrell.

SHS Board Plans Meet

The Serramonte High School Association (SHSA) Executive Board will meet at 8 p.m. today in the faculty room at Serramonte High School.

Sessions are open to the public and all interested parties, particularly Serramonte parente, are encouraged to attend. Visitors are invited to take part in discussion, to express views and ideas relating to association business.

Emphasis will be placed during the month of October on membership enrollment and the Parents' Service Bureau (PSB).

The PSB was initiated in the first year of Serramonte and the office of second vice president, now held by Mrs. Rush Manbert, is structured to focus all energies on the on-going organization of volunteer parent service.

The PSB concerns itself with locating tutors to work in assigned areas (math, reading, science, etc.), clerical work, library aides, a Speakers' Bureau and to work directly with teachers and students upon specific requests.

WATCH FOR A BREAK in the too-long cemetery strike. Our Source, who previously assured us the strike would be over two months ago, whispered that some officials are just about at the agreement stage. This may be true, however, this columnist contacted Cemetery Workers spokesman Maurice Fitzgerald about three hours before he took an offer to a meeting of the union two months ago. At that time, Fitzgerald did not try to hide his optimsm concerning passage of the package. He was shot down, along with the proposal, shortly after by a handful of vociferous union members.

FRANKLY WE'RE sick of the shenanigans connected with this strike. All this behind-the-scenes talk, refusal to let the people know what's going on, answers as to why union membership has continued to reject offered pacts, and refusal of cemetery owners (we include Archbishop McGucken in this latter cagegory) to accept some measure of responsibility for this mess has gone too far. Perhaps it is time to get out our own shovels and show the cemeteries and the strikers how to properly pay final respect to our departed loved ones.

OR MAYBE EXAMINER columnist Guy Wright has the right idea — troop to Sacramento and get the governor to troop out the National Guard to do the job. At any rate, this strike has got to end. It is long past the ridiculous point. Here in San Mateo County the Health Department has not made ONE official inspection of a mortuary to see if there is a health problem. If they have, they are keeping it a big secret like the rest of the people involved in this issue. Everything appears to be a big secret concerning the strike, except the fact those bodies are still being stored in what little space is left in mortuaries. The health problem created by this strike may not be limited to the deceased, rather to their survivors who must bear in mind the dead still have not been committed to their final resting place. Frankly, we'd have a hard time shaving if we had to use the dead as a bargaining tool. And that's exactly what BOTH sides are doing!

ASIDEM TO STRIKE — What that strike needs to settle it is more interested people like San Mateo County supervisor Jim Fitzgerald (no relation to union boss Fitzgerald). The supervisor has been brushed aside by the principals in this in favor of San Francisco's Joe Alioto. The latter didn't want to get involved to any great degree until he heard Governor Reagan was being approached. Stop the politics, fellas and start the burials.

APOLOGIES TO BERNARD HAGAN. Hagan DID bring in plans for his senior citizens' complex to be built near the corner of Mission and Market Streets in D.C. Hagan has successfully built more than 15 HUD approved units in Oakland under the watchful eye of the Oakland Housing Authority. The OHA is well-satisfied with Hagan's work, Our Source tells. And HUD has also let it be known Hagan will likely have NO problem in getting funds and the federal nod to built the proposed 112 units in D.C. based on his past performance and the fact the city could use those units. Hagan submitted revised plans on Tuesday—after this column went to press.

BARKING DOGS and how to stop them. Or "love thy neighbor as thyself." A complaint has been received by the Daly City City Attorney's office concerning a barking dog in the complaintant's neighborhood.

It was our understanding the good offices of Albert Polonsky (city attorney) had to get five signatures on such a complaint.. Or perhaps having a direct contact with the Westlake Subdivision Improvements Association opens many doors for a few??? It would seem the WSIA, which was the moving force behind the dog law to start with, would have wanted to treat one of its members with more accord. Perhaps they could have sent a letter of inquiry? As it stands now, two neighbors are feuding and a-fighting. That's exactly what we DON'T need—more local wars.

BUT THERE IS AN OLD saying that the best defense is a good offense (or something like that). With that in mind I want to use a few inches here to bring to Mr. Piolonsky's attention my own personal complaint about a neighbor whose parakeet is driving me out of my cotton-picking mind.

All night I can hear that dumb bird talking in its sleep. All afternoon that feathered fowl can be heard cracking birdseed in its beak.

I want to tell you Mr. Polonsky if something isn't done, myself and five of my neighbors are going to tar and feather that bird, believe me. Some folks, like that parakeet owner, have no consideration for others. P.S. I'm glad they didn't decide to buy a parrot.

SAVE SAN BRUNO MT. — The best way to save it, Dear Concerned Citzens, is to BUY it. That's right. Some people seem to be free with other folks' money; why not dig into their own pickets and BUY the mountain? I'll bet Crocker would LOVE to sell it!

A Search for Alternative Education

By BOB PETERSON

Problems in education seem to be constantly mounting.

Daly City teachers are striking for what they call quality education.

San Francisco parents for a variety of reasons say they don't want busing.

In South San Francisco, three parochial schools are talking of a merger because none can make it alone financially.

Whether these many situations are a cause the growing search for alternative education is conjecture.

There is, nevertheless, a newly established Peninsula Education Switchboard ready to explain the benefits of alternative education, often referred to as "free school."

The term "free school," is often misinterpreted to mean there is no cost. Not so. The term means that students are free to pursue that which interests them most.

Jack Perron, organizer of the switchboard operation, last week opened a cubbyhole office on the Ellsworth Avenue side of the Unitarian Fellowship, at 300 Santa Inez Avenue, San Mateo.

After teaching two years at Central Washington State College, a teacher's college in Ellensburg, Wash., Perron said he became frustrated.

He decided he would set up the switchboard to help:

—Learners to break the public school hammerlock, by finding learning environments that allow for personal style and whim — yet remain interested in the learner as a human being.

—Parents to learn about these new options in learning that are now evolving, and how they can become more involved and informed about the kind of education their children receive.

—Teachers to obtain positions in alternative education; and to offer support and information for changing attitudes within the system.

—Educators to create more realistic learning situations within the public schools and to share experiences or frustrations with others interested in learning realistically.

—Groups to obtain speakers on the shortcomings of public education, and the potential of alternative education in the community.

—People to create their own learning environments — through free schools, networks or resource centers — in an effort to increase communication among those interested in attaining their full potential in life.

Perron, who earned a bachelor of arts in journalism in 1963 from the University of California at Berkeley, and a masters degree in English, with emphasis in language arts, from San Francisco State College in 1969, said basically alternative education involves new learning options centering on learners.

"It is a reaction to the system of education that says all learners are the same and must be molded to fit the present needs of society without concern for each learner's uniqueness or society's future," said Perron.

He said the present system that uses grades, or tracking, is a system that destroys a person's interest in learning.

"People really enjoy themselves when they are learning what they want to learn," said Perron.

He criticized public schools as being paragons of reward and punishment, and being materials, administration procedures and content oriented.

"The public school theory is that the human mind is an empty vessel in which things must be poured," said Perron. "A child needs to be encouraged and stimulated to learn."

He admits that there are a lot of good teachers in the public school system who are interested in the individual student as a learner. "However, the grades and other procedures force them (teachers) to do things that are abhorrent to them. But they have to do it to keep their jobs," said Perron.

What about alternative education schooling?

Perron said state education code requirements can be met in an alternative education environment. Some 20 such schools on the Peninsula, with a total estimated enrollment of about 1,000, are proof of this fact.

"These schools also prepare students for a college education," said Perron. They have state accredited teachers, also.

"Take hypothetical school X," said Perron. "Say it has an enrollment of 30 students, ages eight to thirteen. On the opening day, the teacher talks with them about their interests.

"Some of the kids might wander about the room, looking at woodworking tools, educational toys and games, or they may pick up a book on a specific subject.

"In a public school, students seldom are able to talk to the teacher unless they are in trouble," said Perron. "Under alternative education, discipline is worked out among the students."

Perron explained that although the student is not getting a strict lesson in English, geography, or science, he learns all these things by pursuing his specific interest.

"It is important that the student follow his own interests. The teacher simply guides him," said Perron. "Why should a child be forced to look into a microscope?"

Perron took a hypothetical student from hypothetical school X. "Say he's interested in a certain type of animal. In studying about this animal he automatically is forced to read about the animal's background (history), where he comes from (geography), his physical make-up (science), how many there are (math), and on and on through all the academic skills," said Perron.

This is opposed to the public school student who supposedly goes to school, sits and is given information he's forced to learn.

"If public schools haven't turned them off, we hope to get (students) interested in alternative education," said Perron. "It has had fantastic success with problem learners. They became model students because they were doing the things they were interested in.

"In the public school system, the student has to be told what to do. Left with the opportunity to do what they wanted to do, some wouldn't know what to do," said Perron.

Perron said the alternative education programs were started by people who became disillusioned with public school. Some were once teachers.

He said the new voucher system of education may increase the growth of alternative education schooling. The voucher allows the option of where one wants to go to school.

Meanwhile Perron continues to try to get teachers together to talk over frustrations, freeing classrooms and in general pushing his philosophy of education.

Tough Competitor in Politics

It was in the year of our Lord, 1906 when Arthur Bodien fled from the halocast of the San Francisco earthquake and fire During the years that followed he placed a deep mark upon the community that grew around the plot that he acquired for his refugee shack.

In politics Arthur Bodien was a tough competitor. He had a fighting heart that led him through his campaigns and enabled him to stand on the issues he deemed to be in the public interest.

His passion for what he once called "better and more efficient government" was Emersonian in its concept. With Emerson he believed that "foolish legislation is a rope of sand, which perishes in twisting; that the state must follow and not lead the character and progress of the citizen; the strongest usurper is quickly got rid of; and they only who build on Ideas, build for eternity; and that form of government which prevails, is the expression of what cultivation exists in the population which permits it. The law is only a memorandum."

SAMUEL CHANDLER

IN REMEMBERING Arthur Bodien it is well to recall another of Emerson's precepts. ". . . society is fluid; there are no roots and centres; but any particle may suddenly become the centre of the movement, and compel the system to gyrate round it, as every man of strong will, like Pisistratus or Cromwll, does for a time, and every man like Plato or Paul, does forever."

Arthur Bodien, although not as schooled as Emerson, learned from experience as part of the government of Daly City and San Mateo County a principle that the great philosopher put into words thusly, "politics rests on necessary foundations, and cannot be treated with levity."

"Politics is not nasty," Art told a young man, "but a serious business." Like Henry Clay, Art considered election to office as a call to serve in a "trust as a trustee; and both the trust and the trustee are created for the benefit of the people."

DURING HIS LONG period of public service, Mr. Bodien served as Building Inspector of Daly City, as Fire Chief, as Superintendent of Public Works and as a City Councilman. His service to San Mateo County included membership on the County Planning Commission and at another time membership on the County's Park and Recreation Commission.

He was past president of the Daly City Boy Scout Council, a member of the Daly City Chamber of Commerce, and past president of the Daly City Employees Association. Added to this service were years of membership in fraternal and civic organizations that have long records of public works.

Surely the community is better because Arthur Bodien was one of its leaders.

The U.S. Ability to React

Gibbon and Toynbee tell us that societies and civilizations must move to meet current reality or disappear. Nations fall when they fail to adjust to things as they are. Reaction of a public body, therefore, is a vital part of continuing success, and as the way people live, commercial practices, philosophy, technology, and communication change, successful nations change, too. Those that fail to do so live in the world that was and can eventually be found in history alone.

The durability of the United States will depend upon our response to the changing world. Unfortunately, our reaction time is unbelievably slow. Economic policies of the 1890's were finally burned off in the crucible of 1932. Programs that succeeded in the thirties live on, and cling to the body politic through time of war and prosperity. We impose forms of local government suitable to management of the villages of the 1700's upon the highly compact strip area of modern America.

In this manner, we continue the Foreign Aid Program without seriously considering its importance to us and to the world.

Following World War II, the United States prevented new "Middle Ages" from descending on Europe and other parts of the non-Communist world. Our financial might, funneled into the hands of persons able to use the money, reconstructed a devastated Europe, and gave the world health it might not otherwise have attained.

The Foreign Aid Program began as a suitable means of solving the problems of the post-war world. But foreign aid has, in the minds of many Americans, become an end in itself. What was good for England, France, West Germany and Italy, must, we concluded, be equally helpful in less developed countries. In many places our largess was captured by the elite and used to oppress rather than develop nations. In some situations, funds alone were not the problem, and the failure of know-how, energy, and competence brought about failure of foreign aid to work the same magical results attained in the highly sophisticated and industrialized nations of Western Europe.

Our concepts of status quo came to require continued expenditure of huge amounts of money for foreign aid. Special interests, including our own bureaucracy and the lobbies of the very nations receiving aid, added pressure to continue programs that were no longer really effective.

Some saw aid as a lever to impose our will on other nations. But our view was clouded; we did not want to give up our image of ourselves as great benefactors, so never came down to the practical necessity of exchanging dollars on a quid quo pro basis for things we wanted from other nations.

This year, the House of Representatives again authorized substantial expenditures for the Foreign Aid Program. On August 3, the House Version (HR9910) passed by the narrow margin of 200 to 192. This bill covers a two-year period and in effect continued the present program by authrizing approximately 3½ billion dollars each for the fiscal years 1972 and 1973.

Representative Otto E. Passman (D. La.), Chairman of the Foreign Operations Special Committee of the House Appropriations Committee, is generally recognized as an expert respecting foreign aid. He has recently released a memorandum which summarizes information concerning the Foreign Aid Program. New requests for aid, through the various agencies administering programs, total 13½ billion dollars. On July 1, 1971, the unexpended balance for foreign aid and assistance, in the pipeline for prior years for appropriation and authorization, totaled 24½ billion dollars.

But the most telling figures concerned total net foreign assistance to 127 nations of the world for fiscal years from 1946 through 1971. Space prevents listing all of these, but repetition of some numbers discloses a good deal about foreign aid. The figures used hereafter refer to billions of dollars.

Total net disbursements to foreign nations: 138½. Included were:, The Republic of China (now Formosa)-5; France-7; Greece-3.5; Japan-3.5; Korea-10; Netherlands-2; Pakistan-4.5; Spain-2; Turkey-5.5; United Kirgdom-7; Viet Nam-15; Yugoslavia-2.5.

It should be kept in mind that listed expenditures include both military and long-term economic assistance and that aid to some nations has long subsided. Nonetheless, examination of these star numbers cannot help but make one wonder what we have been doing.

President Nixon described our aid programs as having distributed most of the chips in a poker game, and that we would, from now on, have to play the game on an equal basis.

Arnold Toynbee must be watching with interest continued American support of nations that should now be required to help themselves. He must wonder whether, because of our devotion to ideas that once worked, we are going to spend ourselves into mediocrity.

Comment on Dock, Teachers' Strikes

Editor, The Post:

Regarding the CTA strike in Daly City—as a taxpayer even though I am in another city, I am very interested in what is happening.

From what I can glean from the newspapers, it looks as though this is a case of teachers trying to dictate to the school board exactly what shall be done.

This is really too bad, and displays what can happen with the growth of Unionism into big business. CTA is big business — They have a very beautiful office building in Millbrae, for example.

CTA has, I believe, its own lobby in Sacramento, and since this is a teachers' union, whose members teach our children, it becomes a very serious situation that a union whose members are under public (taxpayers') funds can dictate to the taxpayers exactly what they, the teachers, will do. This is increasingly so in government today, and it behooves us all, as taxpayers to take a good look at the CTA and its activities, for it is a very powerful political force, and a better look at Mr. Riles, who was elected, by the people (and even I voted for him), into the office of State Superintendent of Schools. If this very powerful union was instrumental in backing him, then he would not make a very good mediator in this situation.

Powerful unions mean lots of money — lots of money means expensive public relations operations — or in pure and simple English — all the money necessary to sway, bedazzle, etc. the general public, always using that most famous battle cry of all — "Don't you want what is best for our children?"

I sure as hell do, and the best for the children isn't raising them in a country where there is distatorship of terms to the owners of public services — the taxpayers! If this is allowed to happen, there will be little, if any chance, for the local school boards to control educational policies — or is that the general idea?

Unions are vitally necessary, since the original cause for their very existence was the greed of management. However, we now find a startling parallel to that greed when unions become too powerful, and a Big Business. They use all the tricks, and some even nastier, of big business. When a union becomes too big, too powerful, it can be dangerous to any sort of freedom, even for those union members, and this, I feel, is true of California Teachers Association now.

I am speaking for myself, in this letter, but I am sure that most, if not all, of the members of this organization would agree with this letter.

RUTH HARRIS,
Secretary,
Peoples' Revolt Against Taxes

Editor, The Post:

Regarding Ruth Harris' letter (Column 6) about the teachers' strike. She has based her opinions on false assumptions. First, she states the CTA is a union. It is not. It is a professional association, the same as doctors, accountants, nurses, or engineers who have an association. Second, Mr. Riles' representatives are here at the request of approximately 1,000 parents who banded together to form a neutral "Concerned Parents" group in hopes of getting the disputing parties back to negotiations which had been broken off by the School Board's negotiators. (Most of the parents are homeowners and we do pay taxes.)

Third, money (salaries) are not an issue. The only public money being used (and I quote her letter) to "sway, bedazzle, etc. the general public" is the School Superintendent and the Board who have used school supplies, equipment, labor, the mail and our children to bring home their position statements.

I have been attending board meetings and parents' meetings; talking with a board member, teachers and school administrators to obtain information about the issues. The Post has done an exceptional job of reporting factually, not slanting reports to favor either side in dispute, but there are many facets and small details that are not covered by the news media.

I am a parent of three children who have attended school in Jefferson Elementary School District over a span of nearly 20 years. How does Mrs. Harris presume to know what the issues are when she says she does not reside in the area and obtains her information from newspapers? There is enough confusion for the parents and residents without more propaganda style writing by those who, whatever the subject, want to get their organization's name and title in print. We are up to our ears in propaganda sent home from school with our children.

MRS. RICHARD ABE,
Colma.

Can't you just imagine the thrill that Harry Bridges gets when he looks out over San Francisco Bay and sees the dozens of ships that he has tied up — the tremendous feeling of power it must give him. It doesn't worry him that hundreds of businesses plus thousands of farmers and ranchers are being badly hurt — to hell with them — he has to make sure that his Longshoremen get full pay or better for half-a-day's work. Job Program

Charles R. Moody, 40, of 1451 James Avenue, Redwood City, started work Friday as project director of the two-year $800,000 federal Emergency Employment Act program in San Mateo County.

The aim of the project is to train 118 persons in public service jobs with the idea of assimilating them into regular government employment.

Moody's first task is the preparation of an application for $250,000 in supplemental funds to provide extra jobs in Daly City, South San Francisco and Pacifica—the area of highest unemployment in the county. The application is to be submitted to the Department of Labor Tuesday.

Congress originally appropriated $600 million for the program, with $100 million of the total to go to California. A supplemental appropriation of $2 million was approved for California cities wrere unemployment exceeds 6 per cent. The three North County cities fall in that category.

The 113 jobs are being provided in the governments of the county, its 11 largest cities and in four school districts—San Mateo High and San Mateo, Belmont and San Carlos elementary.

Moody, a 1952 economics graduate of Stanford University, is being paid $1,000 a month as project director. From 1962 to 1966 he was employment manager for the Ampex Company in Redwood City and his last employment was in the personnel department of the Fairchild Semiconductor Company in Mountain View. He is a former member of the Redwood City Personnel Board and once ran unsuccessfully for the City Council.

ship? It's a real comedy in slow motion.

It must give Bridges even more satisfaction to be able to tell the President of the United States and three West Coast governors in so many words to go to hell — don't bother me!

His main goal is obviously to ruin a great port, and if he breaks a few shipping firms and inconveniences the public, so what.

For union leaders to misuse their tremendous monopolistic powers with utter disregard for the public is deplorable. The fact that Congress is unwilling and unable to do a damn thing about it is ridiculous, and certainly a reflection on the caliber of men we are electing to office today.

R. DUNN,

Hurray! for Mr. McCann from Hillsborough. When God finishes punishing us for the atrocities done in Vietnam — I only hope there is at least a segment left of this supposelly Christian country of America.

Editor, The Post:

I think Congress should vote to let President Nixon stay in office for eight years. This country has too many hang-ups now. So, we should not change horses in the middle of the stream.

If President Nixon and his administration can't help this country in eight years, no President will be able to do it in four years.

This will give our 18 year olds a little bit more time to wise up and develop a little bit more love and respect for our country.

RICHARD L. JENNINGS,

To the Post Editor:

Reference is made to (the Frank Lapierer column) in a September issue of The Post:

Inasmuch as he is echoing my thoughts upon reading the papers the first day or two after the San Quentin incident, I feel that it is about time somebody spoke up and said exactly what he did in his column (particularly the first half).

My immediate reaction upon reading the papers the following day was to write a letter of protest on the one-sided coverages, however, as we too often do, I let the idea slide.

Now that he has said exactly what I should have written, I wish belatedly to agree with the comments and incidentally, to go on record that the news coverage of the days after the San Quentin incident made me a little sick.

'His Land' Film Set at St. Martin's

St. Martin's Episcopal Church will present a special showing of the film "His Land" on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to see this account of the "new Israel," according to the Rev. Timothy Rudolph, pastor of St. Martin's.

"If you would have greater understanding of the crisis in the Middle East," said the Rev. Rudolph, "you must see the ancient and modern significance of the nation Israel. Jews and Christians can rejoice together at what this film recalls."

There is no charge for admission. An offering will be taken.

The church is located at 777 Southgate Avenue, Daly City.

4TH DOWN DISAGREEMENT — Burlingame's Mike Strohmaier (86) changes Rich Wright's mind about a punt in first quarter of Friday's El Camino game, going high in the air to knock the ball back over Wright's head.

Westmoor, Warriors Win

By JERRY LITTRELL

Having defeated some of the best football teams from San Francisco to San Jose, the South San Francisco Warriors now enter what could be a murderer's row when they open North Peninsula League play this week still no better than co-favorites for the conference title.

Ray DeJong's methodical Warriors made it three in a row Friday at Clifford Field with an effective, if at times monotonous, 12-0 defeat of Capuchino's upset-minded Mustangs.

Defense was the order of the night — but not the dominating factor one could expect in a shutout first half. Both teams took turns running, and running well, against each other to no avail. Early mistakes and defenses that suddenly stiffened deep in their own territories kept either team from reaching paydirt.

Then suddenly the Warriors broke through in the third period. A 64-yard drive culminated in tailback Hank Love's seven-yard scoring burst with 5:48 left in the quarter. Capuchino, behind little quarterback Ken Swan, playing with a painful midsection after several bruising tackles, came back on the next series and was down to the 29 when safety Rhod Wallace intercepted the first of his two thefts on the nine to kill the rally.

Back and forth they battled until with 1:07 left in the game Cap was forced to punt from its own end zone. Mike Balestieri charged through the line, partially blocked the punt and tackle Ridge Mahoney fell on the writing pigskin in the end zone for the second Warrior TD.

The down linemen, Mahoney, Mike Cozad and Jeff Funke, did an excellent job of containing the Mustang scoring machine despite the heroic efforts of halfbacks Buy Hanacek and Paul Accinelli, the former getting game honors with 85 yards in 14 tries.

WESTMOOR 30, S. M. 26-36

Westmoor put it together in the second half yesterday against San Mateo's Bearcats, and for 18 minutes were a virtually unbeatable football team. Leading at that point, 30-14, the Rams held on against a last-second surge to register a 30-26 win, their third in three tries.

The first half was the proverbial comedy of errors. Making six and seven yards a pop up the middle, the Rams were handling the game, but inexperienced, Bearcat line. But the aerial game was stuttering badly then. Were it not for the second-line defense, consisting of linebacker Dale Curry, the Rams' halfbacks could have had a field day. It went like this — San Mateo would intercept a pass and then fumble the ball back and the Rams would reciprocate the fumble.

The last fumble led to an 8-3 Bearcat lead when Curry, a truly versatile soul, powered over from the three. Brian MacNamara's 12-yard field goal was Westmoor's only first half scoring. Still another fumble, this one in the end zone, allowed Larry Griffin to fall on the loose ball for a 14-3 halftime advantage.

It was a completely different game after the half. Quarterback Brad Kearns personally led the Rams back to the lead with three consecutive touchdown runs, one of four and two of three yards, two of them after San Mateo fumbles, and then threw to end Bob McLennan for a 24-yard TD.

The Bearcats came back in the final period scoring the final two touchdowns within the last three minutes of action. Curry got his second TD with a four-yard run before Mike Williams took a 77-yard pass from quarterback Jack Lindsey with only one second remaining.

Panthers Beat El Camino

By CHRIS STAVE

The way Burlingame and El Camino practiced all week for yesterday's showdown, you'd think someone was doctoring the Gatorade. Burlingame quarterback Clark Anderson said afterward, "In practice Thursday we Warner team." At one time during the week, five Panthers were out with the flu. El Camino also had trouble putting things together.

But the Panthers snapped out of their slump enough o hand the visitors a mildly surprising 18-6 defeat, proving that the previous week's 14-6 upset of Serra yas no fluke.

Of course, there were, between the two squads, several million yards' worth of untimely penalties and ten turnovers, mostly El Camino's.

Burlingame coach Bob Booker called the play sloppy. El Camino's Tom McCormick was more succinct: "The game was a disgrace to football."

That may have been a bit strong. The contest was not a masterpiece of style or execution, but it was close asd hard-fought, mostly by each team's defensive line.

Each team gained only 107 yards. El Camino rushed 35 times for 59 yards (with most of the gains coming on one drive) and Burlingame 34 times for 36 yards — counting the numerous instances when quarterbacks ere lov noty driven into the turf.

Burlingame, following a pattern set in the Serra tilt, got the first score quickly after recovering a fumble at the Colt 28. Junior back Larry Jones punched three times for ten yards, Anderson tossed a 14-yarder to eventual game star Greg Houts and Art Wicks finished things off with a three-yard burst.

Meanwhile, the Burlingame defensive line was happily handling everything the Colts could throw at it. El Camino tried two quarterbacks — Rich Bergamaschi and Rudy Castellanos — but neither could get enough time to throw completions. And the Colt running attack wasn't.

Late in the second quarter Jones ran away from several Colts behind the line after a missed pitchout and gained 22 yards to the El Camino 33. On the next play Anderson found end Lonnie Noylin in the end zone for a 12-0 halftime lead.

Jones was robbed of two first-half scores by mistakes — penalties nullified a 59-yard punt return and an 11-yard scoring screen pass from Anderson.

El Camino opened the third quarter with the best drive of the day, rolling 65 yards in 13 plays, with Castellanos keeping for the last six. The Colts got three of their four completions then, and the way Colt backs were tearing around, it looked grim for the Panthers.

El Camino took charge defensively and kept heading back to ward paydirt, only to find that the Panther defense had gotten no more time to throw.

When Burlingame gave up the ball, Larry Radchenko would kick it deep into Colt territory. Then, when the Colts tried to pass, Panther middle linebacker Greg Houts would blitz, hurt people and carry on like a madman.

The Colts gave up two scoring drives deep in Panther territory once on an interception and once on a fumble. Then, with time running out and the Colts in a hole, Castellanos went back to pass.

Houts was blitzing. First, he got a piece of the ball and then he got a piece of Castellanos. The ball fluttered over the middle into the willing arms of Panther defender Tom Johnson, clincher.

Second Straight Week

Crestmoor Rolls for 61 Points

By STEVE LOKKER

Lightning struck for the second time in a row Friday night on the Burlingame High School football field. And you could hear the thunder all the way to San Francisco.

For the second successive week the Falcons from Crestmoor rolled for 61 points, this time devastating San Francisco's Polytechnical High 61-12.

The victory came a week after Crestmoor's offense ran up a score of 61-0 against helpless Serramonte. The only real difference was that Poly had a quarterback who could throw and Serramonte didn't.

Senior quarterback Jim Jarvis led the Falcons to an incredible total of 574 yards, 316 of them coming by air. Jarvis connected with Dan Mourgos five times for 143 yards and one TD.

On the ground, George Ama penetrated the Polytech defense easily, carrying nine time for 167 yards and two TDs.

Five of the nine Crestmoor touchdowns came from outside of the Parrot 25-yard line. The longest score of the night was the final tally by Crestmoor as backup QB Denneis Lufrano hit Al Himuro for a 96-yard scoring play.

The first two plays from scrimmage set the pace of the game. Ed Babbs' opening pass was intercepted by Crestmoor's Dennis Stamer. Crestmoor's first play after the interception saw Paul Grossman gallop 63 yards for the TD. The score was called back, but it was only a short time before Ama scored his first from Poly's 25.

Babbs, doing a commendable job of finding holes in Crestmoor's defensive backfield, retaliated later in the first period on a 12-yard TD pass to Al Victoria.

Jarvis led the Falcons back on the next play from scrimmage by connecting with Mourgos on a 62-yard scoring pass and a 14-6 lead.

On the first play of the second quarter Jarvis scored from the two-yard line. A little more than two minutes later he again crossed the goal from the two for a 28-6 lead.

Crestmoor's final marker in the first half came on a 29-yard pass play from Jarvis to Goff. Steve Roller's fifth consecutive PAT kick made it 35-6.

Polytech broke through for the second time with only a minute to go in the half as Lee Britton scored on a three-yard run. The kick failed for a 35-12 halftime score.

The third quarter brought more of the same for the Falcons as they scored three times. Ama ran 59 yards for the first TD, Grossman 19 for the second and Lufrano two for the third tally.

Lufrano then closed out the game's scoring with a 96-yard bomb to Himuro after a Falcon goal-line stand.

Regents Fall To Aragon; Third Defeat

By STEVE JOHNSON

Coach Harold Huffman and his Aragon Dons have not had things going their way recently — until they ran into Serramonte Friday afternoon.

Suddenly, it was Aragon's turn for good fortune. The Dons took full advantage of the opportunity.

The Don offense, held in shackles by opposing defenses in its first two games, had no problems moving against the Regents. Quarterback Dave Matisi, probably a bit surprised at finally getting some pass protection, threw for 188 yards and two touchdowns, completing nine of 17.

Brian Dietrich and Rudy Eichenbaum both dragged in Matisi aerials for scores, from 37 and 27 yards out, while Mark Baldwin and Wayne Smith paced the Aragon ground game with TD runs of six and seven yards.

But as it turned out, the offense really didn't have to strain itself. The Don defense held Serramonte to minus 61 yards on the ground, and even contributed a couple of scores itself. Terry Marcelle went 37 yards with a fumble recovery for one, and Eric Craig came up with the other on a 45-yard pass interception return.

It was Aragon's first win of the season after two losses, while Serramonte remained winless at 0-3.

Pedroni AC Breaks Into Win Column

Pedroni A.C. got into the win column for the first time on the Daly City Adult-Three-man Hunch basketball league by downing the Buzzards 43-26.

R. Fitzgerald scored 13 points to lead the Pedroni attack.

The Sleepers moved into a first place tie with the Lucky Six, defeating the Cavaliers 41-16. The Sleepers' attack was led by Bill Jones, who scored 16 points. Dave Martinez led the Cavaliers scoring as he ended the game with eight points.

In the final game of the week the Sportsmen won by forfeit over the Filth Brothers.

True Test of a Third Man

(First in a Series of Two Columns on Referee Jack Downey)

It is said that the true test of a third man in the ring—a referee—is his unobtrusiveness.

Jack Downey has been so unobtrusive in his 42 years as a referee (40 pro, two amateur) that he can count on the knuckles of his left hook the times he's been recognized outside the ring by boxing fans.

"I take it as a compliment," says the soft-spoken Downey.

And Downey's been complimented as a California referee (the only time he's ref'd outside the state was in Alaska when he was in the army during World War II) for, as close as he can approximate conservatively, 20-25,000 fights. "For a long time I kept a written record of every fight I refereed, but after a while it got to be too much."

For an outgoing, talented man like Downey to remain purposely in the background, his avocation has to be a labor of love.

Unobtrusive outside the ring, he is not. Born of a large Irish family, a resident of the corner of Haight and Ashbury long before it became internationally hip-chic to be so, Downey has led a varied, colorful life. Raised among tough kids, many of whom made the Big Time (San Quentin, Folsom, Skid Row, et al), and once a promising professional fighter, Downey, among many more conventional jobs, was also once an artist's model at the California School of Fine Arts ("At $1.50 an hour it was a bargain, because I also managed to scrounge free art instruction"), is a fine pen-and-ink artist, collects autographs (besides many sports figures, he has all the pioneer aeronautical names, including Wrong Way Corrigan), is a rodeo buff, an excellent horseman, and a former fancy rope-twirling exhibitionest, ala Will Rogers.

ALMOST ANY FIGHTER of quality who has come to California to ply his trade in the past four decades — and a fighter quality has hardly ever stayed out of California — has, the odds are good, been officiated over by Downey.

One who might assume that a man willing to be unobtrusive must have purely mercenary reasons, is wrong. Referees are paid relatively poorly. The biggest pay night Downey has ever had was $650, for refereeing the Gene Fullmer-Carmen Basilio middleweight title fight in San Francisco in 1959. Generally, the fees ar more like $200-300, and it musn't be forgotten that that usually includes preliminaries, too. When Downey first started, the standard fee was $15 and $20 expenses, and that often included amateur bills which would require refereeing anywhere from 16-25 fights in one night.

What, then, compels men to take on the responsibility and hard work engendered in the duties of a fight referee for fees that are infinitesimal compared to what many of the fighters will be making?

"Pride," says Downey. "Sure, a referee can play it safe and refuse a championship fight — because don't forget, one bad handling of an important fight can lose him many future assignments — and maybe in the long run be better off financially handling smaller, safer stuff. But any man wants to reach the top of his profession. And in refereeing, that is represented by assignments to championship fights. The money really isn't important. If you really like the fight game, what is important is working with those wonderful fighters."

Downey, obviously, has reached the top of his profession, because he's worked with almost all of them. The best he's ever seen were Willie Pep and Sugar Ray Robinson. And San Francisco's Freddie Apostoli rated high, too.

"APOSTOLI WAS MAYBE the closest I ever saw to Rocky Marciano (Downey was a judge at the Marciano-Don Cockell title fight in San Francisco) for just pure determination. Of course, Marciano was in a class by himself in that category. He was never beaten because he just refused to be beaten. The only way anybody could have beaten Rocky would have been to kill him. Dempsey—my own personal ring idol—had a lot of that in him, too.

"Jack was just a vicious fighter. He didn't even take it easy on his sparring partners, or any guy he was matched against. He always went all out.

"Marciano would have beaten Clay, or Ali, too. Ali would have moved around, but Marciano would have eventually caught up with him. I just couldn't see Ali winning. He wouldn't have landed enough punches on Marciano. You know, in his own crude way, Marciano was a better defensive fighter than most people gave him credit for. He took a lot of punches on the arms, shoulders, back of the head, and he rolled with a lot of punches. He was rarely hit with a really clean, head-snapping shot.

"The best way I can describe the way it was to fight Marciano is like this: Marciano was like a powerful truck going up hill. A high speed car would start out real fast but only go so far, and then conk out. But Marciano would just keep going up hill in low gear, and no matter what was in his way, he spread it out in front of him. He kept hitting you some place, on the arms, the wrists, and they all hurt, and eventually the opponent would get worn down and Marciano would move in for the kill. He was just devastating!"

In many ways, Downey's life has been like a Rocky Marciano fight.

Born the seventh of eight children, Downey got in only a couple of years of secondary schooling at old Sacred Heart before he had to quit school to help support the family when his father died in 1919. The entire family worked, though not always simultaneously ("It seemed there were always a few with jobs, and a few without them"), and managed to stick together.

Downey worked any jobs he could get, though they were usually driving a truck of some kind. One of the best jobs he ever had was a job hauling steel off the docks, because, "It kept me in fight shape."

A LIFE-LONG STICKLER for conditioning (He still weighs what he did the day he quit fighting—168), Downey used to, "almost kill myself running." One of his favorite early routes was from the corner of Haight and Ashbury to Ocean Beach and back — three miles each way. When he lived in the Richmond district, he would run from 17th or 18th avenue to Fleishhacker Pool and back, starting at 5:30 a.m. That was 10 miles, round trip.

"I ran in all weather. People would be going by and they'd be laughing and saying look at that sucker, and I'd be saying to myself, you're the suckers, you're going downtown in that carbon monoxide.

"There was nothing like taking a breath of that fresh air and have it hit your lungs. It was like taking a nice cold glass of water when you're thirsty."

Always, he somehow fit boxing in around his work schedule. He started with the big mitts when he was a child around small clubs, and later, when he was older, he was tutored by an old ex-four round fighter named Willie Robinson.

In those early days, Downey had to bootleg his boxing, because the female members of his family — especially his mother — were against it.

On the night of a workout or a fight he'd have to drop his grip out a rear window to one of his waiting brothers, and then walk nonchalantly out the front door under questioning from his mother as to his destination.

"She always warned me that one of these days, I'd be scarred for life, that was always he parting shot. (Note: Downey was too good a boxer to suffer that fate. He doesn't have a mark on his body.) If my father would have been around he would have been proud, because he had tried to teach me boxing when I was just a little fella."

To be handy with ones dukes was not a luxury in Downey's old neighborhood. It was almost a necessity. Downey was, however, rarely in a street fight because of a reputation he had managed to build himself.

WHEN HE WAS working in a butcher shop, he put up a heavy bag in the basement of the shop, bought a set of gloves, and got a local boy he knew he could beat to spar with him every night. Downey kept fighting the willing pawn, and beating him, thus not only building up his own confidence, but convincing the other boy that Jack was a holy terror. Jack's sparring partner spread the word among the neighborhood gangs, and Jack was never bothered by the local tough guys.

"The only street fights I ever got into," says Downey, "were with strangers, and even then, because I was a slow burner, I had to really be pushed to fight back. When I did, the fights never lasted more than one or two punches.

"I never wanted to hurt anybody, even later, when I was fighting as a pro. I wanted to win. It was a game. But I never wanted to hurt anybody."

Perhaps the lack of this "killer instinct," the basic ring meaness which Downey contends all successful fighters have, is what prompted Downey to quit as a pro after only two years and about 20 fights, against the judgment of some fight people who felt he could go much further.

"I just didn't think I could go any further," says Downey, "And then there was the family pressures. Maybe it was a mistake, but then again it may have been the best thing I ever did."

Boxing was still in Downey's blood, however, and it wasn't long before he began his career as a referee.

Country Clubbers Capture Slow Pitch Softball Title

The Country Clubbers won the title in the "B" League South by defeating an improved P.G.&E. team by a score of 10-5. The victory was the sixth win in a row were the only undefeated team in both "B" Divisions. Members of the championship team are as follows: John Jarvis, Bob Nolan, Kerry Schmidt, Steve Roche, Jerry Gordon, Bill Feely, John Gradwohl, Jim Benevides, Joe Carrara, Mike Ciardella, Dave Garrison, John Cannon, Jerry Montague, Joe Toboni, and Steve Becker.

Sam's Odd Lots captured the second place trophy by downing Molloy's Springs by a score of 10-0. Walt Henry pitched his second shutout in a row, while Al Griffin homered and drove in 3 runs for the Odd Lots. The Odd Lots were defeated in their first game, but bounced back to win five games in a row.

The Round Table Knights won two straight games last week and captured third place in the B League South. The Knights defeated the Pomona Casuals and PG.&E by scores of 9-8 and 19-2. The Knights used all around team play to defeat both of these opponents. Ray Maxwell and Hector Gonzales played fine ball for PG&E in their game with the Knights. Jim Franco and Ron Mini starred for the Casuals in their game with the Knights.

A League Highlights

The Daly City "Dagos" used the strong left hand of Terry Piccardo to defeat the Misfits by a score of 3-0. The victory was seventh win in a row for the Dagos and gave them the championship in the A League. Piccardo, who has been the "Dagos" most valuable player all season long, hurled his second shutout and led the Dagos to the championship. Members of the championship team are as follows: Vince Leveroni, Larry Nannini, Joe Skaar, Rich Moura, Dennis DiEicco, Roy Chiappari, Ralph Olcese, Gary Ciardella, Mike Smyth, Gary Sanguinetti, Bill O'Brien, Terry Piccardo, Dave and Jerry Mahood.

In other games Broadway Plumbing kept their second place hopes alive by downing Canco by a score of 8-1. The plumbers used great team defense to down Canco, Broadway Plumbing now must play Sierra Ski and Dive in make-up game to decide second place. If Broadway Plumbing should defeat Sierra Ski and Dive a second game will be played at a later date.

Glen Cowan

Coach Worried

By FRED BAER

College of San Mateo's nationally ranked football team has lost just three games since the beginning of the 1969 season — but two of those losses have been deadly.

The Bulldogs dropped the Golden Gate Conference opener the last two years and both times that loss cost a championship.

CSM coach Ted Tollner is afraid his team will underrate Diablo Valley —their opponent for Saturday night's league opener on the Vikings' Astroturf. The reason — Diablo Valley lost to American River 20-14, and CSM beat AR 28-7.

But Diablo Valley was the team that put the lone loss on CSM last year. And Tollner is worried about this year. "It's the consensus of our coaching staff that Diablo has the strongest team in the conference, personnel-wise," Tollner told the Bay Area JC Writers' luncheon here yesterday.

The other league coaches present disagreed — to a man they tabbed CSM the team to beat.

Keith Calkins of two-time defending champ Chabot said, "CSM is definitely the favorite."

Foothill coach Bill Abbey agreed: "CSM is certainly the outstanding team at this point. Diablo is extremely strong, but got beat last week by American River. I also thought San Jose was an excellent team,but San Mateo beat them badly (37-3)."

San Mateo has given American River (28-7) and San Joaquin Delta (27-0) their only losses to date. San Jose, regarded as a tough team by all the coaches, is 1-2, also losing to West Valley, 19-0 — the state's second-ranked large JC.

"Diablo Valley gets six points playing at home on their Astroturf field," new Merritt coach Danny Crockett predicted."But San Mateo is the stronger team. They have better execution,and play with confidence."

Table Tennis Showing at Serramonte

Glenn Cowan, 20-year-old champion table tennis player and member of the U.S. Table Tennis Team who launched the "ping pong diplomacy" in Peking last April, will appear Thursday, between 1 and 4 p.m. at the Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City.

His visit to the San Francisco Bay Area is being sponsored by QFI supermarkets and RJR Foods, Inc. in behalf of Chung King Oriental Frozen Foods.

Cowan will demonstrate his ping pong prowess with exhibitions with 49er football team head coach, Dick Nolan, and members of the San Francisco Boys Club. The Boys Club and Mt. St. Joseph Orphanage for Girls will receive regulation tables and full equipment following the event.

Three mini rickshaws and 25 ping pong sets will be given in each of the eight QFI stores in the Bay Area during the promotion, which runs October 6, 7, and 8.

Winners will be announced October 9.

Millbrae Spur Bill Is Signed

Governor Reagan has signed a bill by Senator Arlen Gregorio (D-San Mateo) that secures for park and open space purposes an eight-acre strip of land in San Bruno between Junipero Serra County Park and San Bruno City Park.

The measure, Senate Bill 1093, enables the State Highway Commission to quit claim this part of the "Millbrae Spur" to the City of San Bruno and the County of San Mateo. "This will permit the county and San Bruno to link up their two respective parks and thus preserve an unbroken area of urgently needed open space," Senator Gregorio said.

The senator explained that the unused right of way was originally purchased in 1943 by the Department of Public Works in anticipation of a planned Junipero Serra Freeway routing. But several bayside communities registered strong opposition to a freeway through residential areas, and the route was eventually changed to the present alignment to Interstate 280.

The bill has the support of the City of San Bruno, San Mateo County and the Department of Public Works.

Change of Command For Cadet Squadron

San Bruno Cadet Squadron No. 90, Civil Air Patrol had a change of command recently when Cadet Thomas Hennessey of 1730 Claremont, San Bruno, relieved Cadet Richard Schenck, of 153 Linden Avenue, San Bruno.

Three cadets, Roger Williams, of 526 Chestnut, San Bruno, and Lawrence Quinn of 21 Southdale, Daly City, and Wesley Jones of 1337 Vista Grande, Millbrae, attended the 10-day summer encampment at Travis AFB to qualify for a certificate of proficiency, which also continues their training for officer rating, after required achievement classes.

Cadets and seniors attended a REDCAP search and rescue training session recently at Santa Rosa Airport to qualify for emergency services card.

We are organizing a drill team to compete next year with the California Wing, and have been assigned a bus in which to transport members to all functions.

Recruitment for the new year begins in October and applicants are accepted, 13 through 17 years for cadets and seniors of all ages are welcome every Wednesday, 7 to 9 p.m., at the Marine Reserve Building on 12th Naval Facility entrance off Sneath Lane, San Bruno.

Membership Class at Westside

Sunday School Hour, Pastor David Donnelly will be conducting a Westside Baptist church membership class for adults at 9:45 a.m. Sunday. At this hour 15 Bible centered, age-graded classes also will meet.

"A Knowledgeable Decision" is the title for the 10:55 a.m. morning worship hour message by Pastor Donnelly.

Coference Fellowship will be at 6 p.m., when five age groups come together for study and fellowship. Pastor Donnelly is leading the adult group in the study of the book, "Spirit Controlled Temperament." There are youth groups for primaries, juniors, junior and senior highs.

"God's Plan — A Man" is the sermon topic for the 7 p.m. Family Fellowship Gospel Hour. This is an informal, family-type service.

Westside Baptist Church is located at 390 Inverness Drive, Pacifica, and is affiliated with the Baptist General Conference.

The nation is drinking less coffee, or at least using fewer beans, than in the late 1940s. Part of the drop is due to introduction of instant coffee during the 1950s. Instant products now make up nearly one-fifth of total coffee consumption.

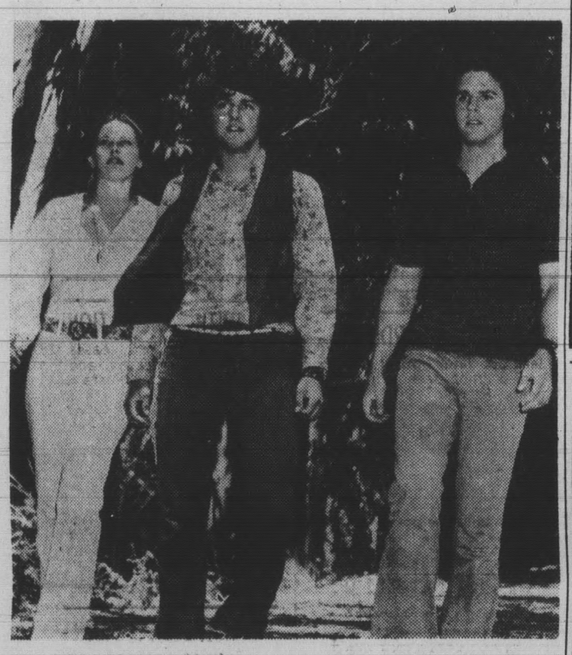
BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Vince's Restaurant Is Family Operation

Vince Licata and his sons, Tony and Louis, keep a close rein on every phase of the operation at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant and the Fish Depot next door. The staggering volume of business here is derived from a combination of quality food and moderate prices. The menu is rich with a variety of seafood dishes, favorite Italian specialties, as well as huge salads, man-sized sandwiches and hearty-cut steaks . . . Executive chef Tom Delano has created quite a bit of excitement in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel's Greenwillow dining room. Delano recently introduced several "Chef's Specials," which are available at the same prices during both lunch and dinner. This is in addition to the Greenwillow's regular menu. Also, the jumbo cocktails, served by the pitcher, continue to be a huge beverage attraction . . . Dinner in the well-appointed dining rooms at Scotty Campbell's, an award-winning restaurant in Redwood City, may be preceded by cocktails in the cheerful bar-lounge, one of the local favorites. Here, the talk may be of golf, football, a new artist, or perhaps antiques, of which there are many gracing the interior of both the lounge and dining areas.



HOUCK AND SCOTT, an exciting and enthusiastic group, is now in the second week of a month's stint at Russo's in San Bruno. The trio (Ron Houck, his brother, Gene, and Sue Scott) has performed on local television shows and in concerts throughout California, Nevada and Washington. The seasoned performers sing a variety of styles, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Doros World Famed 'Foodmark'

All summer long Don Dianda has had many people from all over the country dining at Doros tell him they read about Doros in Holiday Magazine, which has named Doros as tops in San Francisco for the past ten consecutive years . . . Sal Campagna, owner of the House of Troy, San Carlos, is to be complimented on his continued policy of serving only the finest quality food. If you are celebrating a special occasion you will be served complimentary champagne along with your dinner. For a complete Filet Mignon dinner at a very special price, mention the House of Troy advertisement in Bright Lights . . . Don Althoff, Ernie's Liquors president, entertained a group of the store managers at Bertolucci's restaurant in South San Francisco. Twenty-four managers and their assistants were in attendance . . . The Christou Lounge, formerly known as the Yankee Doodle, invites you to enjoy the convenience of their elegantly decorated new room for dining. Located at 447 Powell, San Francisco, The Christou Lounge features favorite dishes from the Greek and American cuisine. Luncheon is served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.; hot hor d'oeuvres from 5 to 7:30 p.m.

New Duo For Hillsdale Inn

Starfire, a duo consisting of Harlow Hansen and Harry Gris appear nightly, Tuesdays through Saturdays, in the Sportsman's Lounge of Hillsdale Inn, San Mateo. The talented twosome provide an assortment of sounds, including country, Latin, old standards and a bit of rock. They both sing well, and Harlow does some great things on his honky-tonk piano. Harry plays a fine lead guitar, and doubles on banjo. Starfire will be appearing at the Inn for a three-weeks engagement . . . Chowders, many kinds of salads, oysters prepared several different ways and a variety of fish entrees are all on the menu at Sil Oliva's Exposition Fish Grotto, Fisherman's Wharf. Art Davis, the chef here, has won so many culinary awards that he actually needs a trophy room for their display . . . The Red Cottage definitely has some long luncheon hours. Co-owner Ken Parrett fully realizes the erratic schedules that many business executive keep, and with that in mind his Menlo Park restaurant luncheon hours extend from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Saturday. . . .

Charleston Number At Finocchio's

The Charleston number performed by ballerina Reggie Dahl at Finocchio's nitery in San Francisco is one of the new show stoppers. Every time the talented entertainer presents this roaring '20's number in the spotlight of flickering fluorescents the audience breaks into thunderous applause. Another top number is his take-off of a striptease by the great Gypsy Rose Lee . . . Bill Courtial, the leader, guitarist and vocalist with Che'La, now in the Golden Rooster Lounge of South San Francisco's Rodeway Inn, has a degree in music from the University of Buffalo. He once worked with the Buffalo Philharmonic and entertained at Top of the Tower, New York City, for eight years. If you happen to be in the market for a guitar, Bill is the man to see. Besides being a musician, he also owns Guitars, Unlimited in Menlo Park . . . Phil Lehr and his staff at the Steakery in downtown San Francisco are all set for a big turnout of delegates from the big Water Pollution Control convention. Phil already has a busy calendar of cocktail and dinner parties on the books for the visiting conventioneers.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Belmont Holiday Inn Now Serving Luncheon

Something new has been added to the Holiday Inn, Belmont. Luncheon is now being served Mondays through Fridays, in addition to the food operation in the adjacent Saxon Platter. Service in the Red Fox Lounge will be from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Food and Beverage Director Don Becker has created a special luncheon menu, which includes both hot and cold sandwiches. The "Foxton Sandwich" is the menus featured attraction . . . Lou and Joe Ercoli will be opening their Leaning Tower restaurant early on Sunday, October 10. Because Lou has a couple of bus loads of fans headed for the 49er game, he will open the lounge around 10:30 a.m. Tab for the round-trip fare is $2 per person, and that even includes a cocktail following the game . . . California's finest wine labels are represented on the Le Bistro Rouge wine list, along with numerous imported vintages. Presentation and service of the excellent French and Continental cruisine match the quiet elegance of the dining room. Owner-host Dimitrios Fanopoulos reminds you that there is ample parking behind the restaurant, which is located on Twenty-fifth Avenue. There's a back entrance to the restaurant for your convenience.

FRANKIE FANELLI, one of the bright, new, entertainment stars, entertains at Miyako Hotel in San San Francisco with three nightly shows (except Saturday and Sunday). Frankie comes direct from the Main Room at the Sahara Vegas and the Sahara Tahoe, where the "new sound" of his voice and his strong contemporary style earned him a brilliant reputation.

Special Costa Brava Hours For Football

In order to accommodate the 49er fans, the Costa Brava restaurant in San Francisco will be serving a complete 49er breakfast deluxe from 9:30 a.m. For those who would like to leave their car in the Costa Brava parking lot, a chartered bus will take you the short distance to Candlestick Park. So keep this in mind when the 49ers play at Candlestick Park on October 10, 17, 31, November 14, December 12 and 19 . . . When a rear entrance parking lot tops a front entrance, that makes for eyebrow raising. Yet it's a 60-40 ratio at Bruno's in the Mission. Sixty per cent of the diners prefer that handy, one step deal direct from their cars to the Bruno rear entrance rather than bucking traffic. Keeps Kay (Wiggles) Nolan busy working both entrances . . . Sam Marconi, owner of Maiden Lane's Iron Horse restaurant, just off Kearny, is a well experienced veteran in the art of pleasing his patrons. Deluxe luncheons and gourmet dinners are served, plus banquet rooms are available for special entertaining. Open Mondays through Saturdays, the Iron Horse is a pleasant place to be.

Don Kelly Featured At Moonraker

The view from the Moonraker's tiered dining room and lounge — day or night — inspired the name of the restaurant, located at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Moonraker means "A sail rigged above a skysail," a name used by seafarers because the sailing ship seemed to be "touching the moon." Don Kelly presides at the organ as you dine sumptuously on Continental cuisine prepared European-style . .. Just across the way, and overlooking the same scenic view of the Pacific ocean, is Nick's restaurant, where countless Bay Area residents and their out-of-town friends head for dining — any time of the day . . . Here's good news: The Papagayo Room, another Nick Gust restaurant enterprise, has extended its "2 for the price of 1" coupon offer through October 31. When presenting the coupon appearing in the advertisement on Bright Lights you will receive a choice of a Steak Picado or Large Combination Plate, with the least expensive dinner being free. This is Nick's way of introducing you to his menu of tantalizing Mexican dishes that are receiving "olays." . . . New, considerably lower Winter rates are now in effect at Park Avenue Tours. With four Bay Area locations to serve you, Park Avenue Tours sends bus tours to the Reno and Lake Tahoe areas, and offers generous refunds for both one and two-night stays. A variety of drive-up packages are also available.

Pilot-Lawyer Sues Exec Over Wife

An Atherton airlines pilot and spare-time lawyer filed a $1 million lawsuit Friday accusing a Menlo Park businessman with interfering with a contract — his marriage contract.

The pilot-attorney is Jay C. White, 46, and the businessman is David H. Welch, president of a Palo Alto credit company.

The suit accuses Welch of "enticing, diverting and alienating" White's wife, LaVerna, a former stewardess, and of maintaining "an illicit and illegal liaison" with her.

White asks the court to order Welch to stay away from her. A hearing has been scheduled for 9:30 a.m. October 12.

White, who took a correspondence course in law and became an attorney between flights, says in the suit that the situation has made him so ill that he cannot pass his flight physicals, resulting in the loss of $3,000 a month income.

The suit states that the defendant "commenced the relationship knowing it would interfere with (Mrs. White's) contractural duties and obligations" to White and their two sons.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY

Better Business Bureau

The fact that the Better Business Bureau, a private, non-profit agency is supported solely by business has proven to be somewhat confusing to some people.

The bureaus recently have been accused of singling out the small, non-member businessman for its target while protecting the large Better Business Bureau members.

It may appear this way to those on the outside due to the fact that the bureau members, whether large or small, strive to satisfy their customers and agree to abide by the principles of the Better Business Bureau.

Firms which do not advertise in the public's interest; who do not make good their promises; who do not cooperate with the Better Business Bureau and their customers, are not invited to be bureau members. If the occasion arises, firms are voted out of membership if they do not follow the principles of the BBB.

When a firm joins the Better Business Bureau it "agrees to abide by the principles, objectives and ideas set forth in the by-laws to the best of its ability." Such firms show that they care about the public and the relationship between the buyer and seller.

Neither the bureau nor anyone else can protect the consumer from himself. However, more laws and agencies are not the answer. According to a study of public attitudes toward consumerism conducted by Lou Haris and Associates for Life Magazine, 18 per cent of the public say they have been in touch with a consumer agency to get help over a purchase problem. Of this 18 per cent group, 86 per cent contacted their BBB, 7 per cent a private agency and only 6 per cent any government agency.

LEGAL NOTICE LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo, State of California, will receive sealed bids for the furnishing of all labor, materials, transportation and services required for:

Specifications for REROOFING the HALL of FLOWERS, SAN MATEO COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS, San Mateo, California, for the County of San Mateo.

2. Instructions for bidders, bid forms, specifications and contract documents may be examined at the office of the County Purchasing Agent, Redwood City, California. All bids shall be submitted in accordance with the requirements and conditions of said documents, including such bid bonds as may be required.

3. Drawings, specifications, and contract documents may be examined and copies obtained at the office of the Director of Building Construction and General Services, County Office Building, 590 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California, upon deposit of $10.00 for said documents, which deposit will be forfeited if the contractor fails to return the specifications in good condition within ten (10) days of the bid opening date.

4. Bids shall be sealed and filed with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo at the Hall of Justice and Records, Redwood City, California, on or before the 19th day of October, 1971, at 11:15 a.m. and will be opened in public in the Chambers of said Board of Supervisors at or about 11:15 a.m. of that day in said Hall of Justice and Records.

5. WAGE RATES. The Board of Supervisors has determined and has had published the rates of prevailing wages in the County of San Mateo, in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform the contract. Said prevailing rates are set forth on listing, copies of which are set forth in the specifications for the work, in the offices of the County Clerk, Purchasing Agent and Director of Building Construction and General Services. Crafts and rates per hour for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform this contract are listed under Wage Rates, Instructions to Bidders.

6. The prevailing rates so determined are based on an 8-hour day, 40-hour week, except as otherwise noted. Existing agreements between the Building Trades and the Construction Industry groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.

7. It shall be mandatory upon the contractor, and upon any subcontractors under him, to pay not less than the said specific rates to all laborers, workmen or mechanics employed by them in the execution of this contract.

8. A Bond will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in amount not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged and all bids contracted for materials in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the bid.

Motorcyclist Is Killed

Mark L. Lenzini, 19, of 257 Gardenside Avenue, South San Francisco, was fatally injured on Monday when his motorcycle crashed head-on into a car on the Airport frontage road at the San Francisco International Airport.

California Highway Patrolman L. D. Walton said both Lenzini and the driver of the other car, James Wesley Scarborough, 24, of Sausalito, were apparently driving in excess of the posted speed limit and both laid down 60 feet of skid marks.

One witness reported that Lenzini's motorcycle crossed over the center line even though he put his motorcycle down on its side in an attempt to stop. The motorcycle hit the right front of Scarborough's car.

Lenzini suffered massive injuries and died at 11:10 p.m. at Peninsula Hospital. He is survived by his wife, Denise.

Colts, Trojans in Preview Race

Skyline College placed fifth and Canada seventh in the Camino Norte Conference's preview cross country meet Saturday. Santa Rosa JC edged host College of Marin for honors in the four-mile team race.

Marin's Mike Arago was the individual winner while Skyline's Ed Schelegle was the highest local finisher, clocking 22:10 for fifteenth place.

World Series Causes Golf Tourney Change

The upcoming World Series (which some say will be played between Baltimore and Pittsburgh) has caused another headache in the North County.

Pete Markovich has had to reschedule his well known "Fifteenth Annual Divoter Open" from its previous date to Friday, October 22.

It seems no one wanted to play at the tricky Franklin Canyon Golf Course during the series unless they could carry a color TV set with them.

"In the spirit of good golf, and because a lot of players don't like to hear cheering while they putt, I've decided to change the date until after the series is over," Markovich explained.

Are You Making Too Much?

You may be in the same situation as many people are today, the more you make, the more you pay in income taxes. What you need is TAX SHELTER. The government provides tax breaks for people who own income property, even if it is only a duplex or a rental house. You don't have to be a millionaire to receive these tax savings. With a small investment we can show you how to save much of your hard earned dollar.

EXAMPLES

☆ Westisde, 2-bdrm. $15,950
☆ Westside, duplex. $42,750
☆ 2-year-old 4-plex. $59,500
☆ 7-unit apt. bldg. $115,000

Call us today, we will be happy to personally discuss how we can save you money.
